Sex, Paranoia, and Modern Masculinity Kenneth Paradis,2012-02-01 Sex Paranoia and Modern Masculinity explores how twentieth century conceptions of paranoia became associated with the excessive or unregulated exercise of masculine intellectual tendencies Through an extended analysis of Freudian metapsychology Kenneth Paradis illustrates how paranoid ideation has been especially connected to the figure of the male body under threat of genital mutilation or emasculation In this context he also considers how both midcentury detective fiction especially the work of Raymond Chandler and contemporaneous autobiographies of male to female transsexuals negotiate the terms of this gendered understanding of psychopathology thus articulating their own notions of moral value individual autonomy and effective agency

The Dying City Brian L. Tochtermann,2017-05-08 In this eye opening cultural history Brian Tochtermann examines competing narratives that shaped post World War II New York City As a sense of crisis rose in American cities during the 1960s and 1970s a period defined by suburban growth and deindustrialization no city was viewed as in its death throes more than New York Feeding this narrative of the dying city was a wide range of representations in film literature and the popular press representations that ironically would not have been produced if not for a city full of productive possibilities as well as challenges Tochtermann reveals how elite culture producers planners and theorists and elected officials drew on and perpetuated the fear of death to press for a new urban vision It was this narrative of New York as the dying city Tochtermann argues that contributed to a burgeoning and broad anti urban political culture hostile to state intervention on behalf of cities and citizens Ultimately the author shows that New York's decline and the decline of American cities in general was in part a self fulfilling prophecy bolstered by urban fear and the new political culture nourished by it

It Didn't Mean Anything Alexander N. Howe, 2008-03-17 This critical study of American detective fiction examines the history and development of the detective genre through the lens of psychoanalysis Applying the ideas of French psychoanalyst Jacques Lacan the author identifies and categorizes popular works according to the fictional protagonist's hysteria obsessive neurosis perversion or psychosis The first chapter identifies several instances of hysteria within the fiction of two of the genre's pioneers Edgar Allan Poe and Arthur Conan Doyle Chapter Two traces the development of the hard boiled detective's code of honor through the works of Dashiell Hammett Raymond Chandler and Mickey Spillane identifying the often paradoxical nature of this code and its origins in obsessive neurosis Chapter Three analyzes the anti detective fiction of Philip K Dick in terms of paranoid psychosis and the final chapter returns to the question of hysteria taking up the female hard boiled detectives of author Marcia Muller

The Figure of the Detective Charles

Brownson,2014-01-16 This book begins with a history of the detective genre coextensive with the novel itself identifying the attitudes and institutions needed for the genre to emerge in its mature form around 1880 The theory of the genre is laid out along with its central theme of the getting and deployment of knowledge Sherlock Holmes the English Classic stories and their inheritors are examined in light of this theme and the balance of two forms of knowledge used in fictional detection cool or rational and warm or emotional The evolution of the genre formula is driven by changes in the social climate in which it is embedded These changes explain the decay of the English Classic and its replacement by noir hardboiled and spy stories to end in the cul de sac of the thriller and the nostalgic Neo Classic Possible new forms of the detective story are suggested
