The Women Who Invented Twentieth-Century Children's Literature Elizabeth West, 2022-10-24

Publishing for children between 1930 and 1960 has been denigrated as a relatively fallow period for creativity and quality certainly in comparison with the golden ages of children's literature that preceded and succeeded it. This book questions this perception by using archival evidence to argue that the work of what was predominantly a female group of editors, illustrators, authors and librarians collectively referred to as bookwomen resulted in many titles which are still considered as classics today. The bookwomen reframed ideas about how children's publishing should be approached and valued and in doing so laid the foundations for a subsequent generation of children's authors and publishers who were to achieve far greater prominence. The key to the success of the bookwomen was their willingness to experiment, the strength of their relationships and their comprehensive understanding of the book production process. By focusing on a selection of women working across all aspects of the book production process, this book demonstrates that both individually and collectively women capitalised on their position as other to the existing male institutions. Four to Fourteen Kathleen M.

Lines, 2015-04-09 First published in 1956, this book contains a list of children's books suitable for children from infancy until the early teens. The Cat-a-logue Janice Anderson, 1989 Stories, Pictures And Reality Virginia Lowe, 2007 Stories, Pictures and Reality follows two children as they work out the reality status of stories and pictures with a daily parent/observer record from the birth of the first child until the second is eight, a span of eleven years in all. Together these children pick through the meaning of stories and the motivations of the characters they discover in this unique first-hand description of the discernment that children bring to books from an early age, full of revealing quotes that tell us a great deal about the cognitive development of our young readers. It's a joke, cause it couldn't really have happened. I'll tell you what's pretend: Batman, Robin, Superman, pirates, cowboys and Indians. Pussy cats don't fly kites. The man who drewed it was wrong. In analysis, this longitudinal study shows that children have more insight and understanding than they are often given credit for, and that they approach subjects that puzzle the most sophisticated of thinkers with an elegant simplicity beyond the expectations of conventional psychologists and children's literature commentators. This book urges readers, especially practitioners and academics, to afford greater respect to what young children are capable of in this area. River Diary Ronald Blythe, 2015-09-07 The year takes its shape from the seasons of nature and the feasts and festivals of the Christian year. Each informs and illuminates the other in this loving celebration of nature's gifts and neighbourly friendship. Literature, poetry, spirituality and memory all merge to create an exquisite series of stories of our times. For all the changes in the contemporary countryside, timeless qualities remain and both are captured here with a poet's understanding and imagination.
