Orphans 2 Crystal Orphans:

A Hobo's Son and an Orphan Girl Bob Bristow, 2024-06-06 This book started out as a set of adventure stories that have been published locally in several outdoor newsletters. These stories were so well received that the adventures in other parts of the life of the author and his family were added. A love story naturally evolved because that was what kept them going and led them from the wilderness where they grew up to the big cities working in politics, aerospace, and other advanced technologies. They combined this city work with many kinds of adventures, mostly adventures in wild and unexplored mountains. The love became obvious as Bob struggled for over 50 years to satisfy a promise he made to a 13-year-old girl in grade school: Someday I will build you a castle on a mountain. The book is interesting because it describes a lifetime of outdoor adventures and the effort of two kids to stay alive and progress up the social ladder. The relevant message is that two very poor kids at the bottom of the social ladder can not only survive but rise to the top. The story is unique because the adventures have been experienced by no one else. From Bob falling off an 80-foot cliff to Luci battling a new form of cancer that was supposed to take her life. Readers should take away a good feeling reading about successfully living through many adventures in the mountains and in social life. About the Author: Bob Bristow has a BS in Mechanical Engineering, an MS in Aeronautical Engineering, and all PhD coursework completed in Aerospace Engineering. He worked for Boeing for over 60 years where he built and ran his own research lab. He was an elder in his church and was involved in many professional organizations. Bob enjoys skiing, scuba diving, mountain climbing, fishing, and hunting. He is most passionate about prospecting and mining.

Orphans' Home Laurin Porter, 2003-04-01 A Pulitzer Prize winning playwright, an Emmy winning television writer, and an Oscar winning screenwriter of such notable films as To Kill a Mockingbird, Tender Mercies, and A Trip to Bountiful, the amazingly versatile Horton Foote has been a force on the American cultural scene for more than fifty years. By critical consensus, Foote's foremost achievement is The Orphans' Home Cycle, a course of nine independent yet interlocking plays that traces the transformation over twenty-six years of a small town southern orphan, Horace Robedaux, into a husband, father, and patriarch. Drawing on a wide range of sources, including interviews with Foote, Laurin Porter demonstrates why the author's masterpiece is a unique accomplishment, not only in his personal oeuvre but also in the canon of American drama. Set in and near Harrison, Texas, the fictitious counterpart to Foote's native Wharton, and based partly on his father's childhood and his parents' courtship and marriage, the plays introduce two extended families: those of Horace and his wife, Eliazbeth, across three generations, as well as numerous townspeople whose lives intertwine with theirs. The result is a wide-ranging, intricate work of interconnected stories reminiscent of William Faulkner's Yoknapatawpha saga. Porter shows how the small town southern culture speaks through Horace while she examines the functions of family and community in identity formation She explains that Foote s signature style which replaces stage directions poetic language and suspense driven narratives with sparse restrained dialogue and seemingly actionless plots creates a simmering power by stressing subtext over text a strategy more often associated with the novel than drama Similarly Foote uses recurring character types and motifs interrelated images and symbols and parallel and inverted events that reverberate within and among the plays employing language and structure in innovative ways In comparing the cycle with the works of William Faulkner and Eugene O Neill Porter positions Foote at the intersection of southern literature and American drama Foote s emphasis Porter concludes is not so much on returning home as on leaving it and building a new family contending that for Foote home is not a place but a geography of the heart Her definitive Orphans Home shines much needed light on an understudied talent and proves Foote s to be a vital American voice basic science drug discovery and regulatory factors that underpin this important and growing area of biomedical research. Written by a combination of academic and industry experts working in the field, this text brings together expert authors in the regulatory, drug development, genetics, biochemistry, patient advocacy, group medicinal chemistry, and commercial domains to create a unique and timely reference for all biomedical researchers interested in finding out more about orphan drugs and the rare diseases they treat. Providing an up-to-date monograph, this book covers the basic science, drug discovery, and regulatory elements behind orphan drugs and will appeal to medicinal and pharmaceutical chemists, biochemists, and anyone working within the fields of rare disease research and drug development or pharmaceuticals in industry or academia.
