The Handbook of Civil Society in Africa Ebenezer

Obadare, 2013-09-21 This volume brings together the most up to date analyses of civil society in Africa from the best scholars and researchers working on the subject Being the first of its kind it casts a panoramic look at the African continent drawing out persisting if often under communicated variations in regional discourses In a majority of notionally global studies Africa has received marginal attention a marginality often highlighted by the usual token chapter Filling a critical hiatus the Handbook of Civil Society in Africa takes Africa African developments and African perspectives very seriously and worthy of academic interrogation in their own right It offers a critical clear sighted perspective on civil society in Africa and positions African discourses within the framework of important regional and global debates It promises to be an invaluable reference work for researchers and practitioners working in the fields of civil society nonprofit studies development studies volunteerism civic service and African studies Endorsements This volume signposts a critical turning point in the renewed engagement with the theory and practice of civil society in Africa Moving from traditional concerns with disquisitions on the appropriateness and possibility of the existence and vibrancy of the idea of civil society on the continent the volume approaches the forms contents and features of the actually existing civil society in Africa from thematic regional and national angles It demonstrates clearly the extent to which core intellectual work on civil society in Africa has largely moved from concerns with cultural reductionism to a nuanced examination of the complexities of formal non formal organizational non organizational traditional newer usual unusual engagements detailing the extent to which over time civil society as a concept has been indigenized appropriated and adapted in the terrains of politics society economy culture and new technologies on the continent In all this the book accomplishes the near impossible Without sacrificing the vigour rigor and freshness of the often unpredictable fruits of up to date research into regional and national differences that crop up in the documentation of Africa's multiple realities and discourses the volume weaves together a rich tapestry of the historical theoretical and practical dimensions of an expanding civil society sector and accompanying growth in popular discourse advocacy and academic literature in such a diverse continent as Africa into a meaningful whole of insightful themes Written and edited by a very distinguished cross continental and multi disciplinary collection of researchers research students practitioners and activists the volume provides cutting edge evidence and makes a definitive case for a new lease of life for civil society research in Africa Adigun Agbaje Professor of Political Science University of Ibadan Nigeria Throughout Africa forms of civic engagement and political participation have seen dynamic change in recent decades yet conceptions of civil society have rarely accounted for this evolution This volume is an essential source of new thinking about political association and collective action in Africa The authors offer a wealth of analysis on changing organizations and social movements new forms of interaction and communication emerging strategies and issues diverse social foundations and the theoretical implications of a shifting associational landscape The contributors provide an invaluable addition to the comparative literature on political

The Politics of Civil Society in Africa Emmanuel Matambo, Bhaso Ndzendze, 2025-04-22 This book chronicles how civil society has interacted with time honoured and current challenges confronting the African continent It straddles democracy human rights regional integration climate change global pandemics and technological transformation and how civil society is shaping these All indices of development and the entrenchment of democracy demonstrate the shortcomings of untrammelled state power and the inexhaustive nature of literature that tends to analyse the African condition solely from state actors As the continent with the youngest population but the poorest conditions a considerable portion of which points to state culpability the clarion call that this book makes for a more activist civil society is brought into sharp relief

Power and Resistance in an African Society Les Switzer, 1993 Imagine a history of the United States written from the perspective of the African American community Imagine that the story of this community is told not only from the viewpoint of its leaders the middle class elites but also from the viewpoint of sharecroppers industrial workers and others living on the margins of American culture And finally imagine that this is not only about political and economic relations but also about race class gender and religious relations about the lived experiences of one community that both reflect and represent fundamental issues of power and resistance in an entire society This is what Les Switzer has tried to do with his book Power and Resistance in an African Society Scholars who have read it suggest that this is the first attempt to write a history of South Africa from the perspective of one subordinate community in South Africa The result is a transformed history from below The names dates events and issues of conventional textbook history lose their meaning in the process of reconstructing a history that seeks to free the African from the domain of South Africa's ruling culture The book also offers a unique contribution to African studies in sub Saharan Africa because it explores the material and symbolic manifestations of power and resistance in a pre colonial colonial and post colonial setting The Ciskei region in the eastern Cape was selected as the case study This was the historic zone of conflict between European and Bantu speaking African in southern Africa the Cape Xhosa wars in this region lasting a century The contemporary African nationalist movement in South Africa first emerged in a variety of organizational forms in the Ciskei during the 1870s and 1880s The strategy of petitionary protest probably persisted longer here than anywhere else in South Africa in the post colonial period but popular resistance found a variety of windows outside organized African politics The Ciskei for example was a focal point of rural resistance in the 1920s and early 1930s and again between the early 1940s and early 1960s The gap between rural and urban dissidents in South Africa moreover was first bridged in the Ciskei and its environs during the 1952 Defiance Campaign Finally the Ciskei's segregated African reserve where economic conditions were judged to be most serious emerged as a primary site of struggle on South Africa's periphery during the 1970s and 1980s The focus of this study is on the Xhosa speaking peoples who lived in the Ciskei region in the first century after conquest To highlight the linkages between regional and national issues the Xhosa in the Ciskei are examined in the context of unfolding events in the Cape Colony and in the unified settler state of South Africa after 1910 A distinct plurality of voices would be formed in the complex interplay between color consciousness and class as this community sought space for itself within the domain of South Africa's ruling culture

Ethnicity, Politics, and Society in Northeast Africa Mohammed Ali, 1996 This book deals with the dimensions of ethnicity and ethnic interaction in Northeast Africa It proposes a mechanism to establish a condition of peaceful co existence among ethnic groups in the region Contents List of Tables and Diagrams Foreword Preface Acknowledgements Language and Ethnicity Religion and Ethnicity Territory and Ethnicity Conflict History Conflict Management Systems Peace Democracy and Regulation of Conflict References Index

Power and Politics in Africa: A Boundary Generator Takuo Iwata, 2025-01-07 Africa's potential and challenges in the 21st century make it a focal point for global attention The continent's political landscape is now more diverse with a mix of democracy authoritarianism peace and conflict Understanding the dynamics of African politics is crucial This comprehensive book delves into African Politics and International Relations exploring power through the lenses of politics geography sociology and anthropology It is based on the author's three decades of fieldwork and research across Africa Asia and the West Ideal for academic scholars students diplomats government officials journalists and NGO staff seeking to deepen their understanding of African politics and international relations

Power and Privilege in Roman Society Richard Duncan-Jones, 2016-08-24 How far were appointments in the Roman Empire based on merit Did experience matter What difference did social rank make This innovative study of the Principate examines the career outcomes of senators and knights by social category Contrasting patterns emerge from a new database of senatorial careers Although the highest appointments could reflect experience a clear preference for the more aristocratic senators is also seen Bias is visible even in the major army commands and in the most senior civilian posts nominally filled by ballot In equestrian appointments successes by the less experienced again suggest the power of social advantage Senatorial recruitment gradually opened up to include many provincials but Italians still kept their hold on the higher social groupings The book also considers the senatorial career more widely while a final section examines slave careers and the phenomenon of voluntary slavery

Africa's Soft Power Oluwaseun Tella, 2021-05-23 This book investigates the ways in which soft power is used by African countries to help drive global influence Selecting four of the countries most associated with soft power across the continent this book delves into the currencies of soft power across the region from South Africa's progressive constitution and expanding multinational corporations to Nigeria's Nollywood film industry and Technical Aid Corps TAC scheme Kenya's sport diplomacy fashion and tourism industries and finally Egypt's Pan Arabism and its reputation as the cradle of civilisation The book asks how soft power is wielded by these countries and what constraints and contradictions they encounter Understandings of soft power have typically been driven by Western scholars but throughout this book Oluwaseun Tella aims to Africanise our understanding of soft power drawing on prominent African philosophies including Nigeria's Omoluwabi South

The Journal of the Chemical, Metallurgical & Mining Society of South Africa, 1906 Society, Power, and Land in Northeastern Zimbabwe, ca. 1560–1960 Admire Mseba, 2024-11-12 A little over two decades ago Zimbabwe undertook its Fast Track Land Reform Programme Critics saw it as nothing more than an assault on human and property rights for political expedience by a ruling elite that was fast losing its power In contrast those sympathetic to the land reform program saw it as fundamental to the righting of colonialism's historical wrongs Yet rural displacements at the hands of state actors or of those closely connected to them continue As in the past the continuing land conflicts are mostly understood as the result of the actions of an authoritarian state that exploits its control of land for the political and economic benefit of those who inhabit it These explanations share one thing in common each understands the country's perpetual land questions in terms of the actions or inactions of the colonial or the postcolonial state This book refocuses attention on how regimes of power rooted in kinship gender generation and status have individually and in combination informed access to land in precolonial northeastern Zimbabwe It then examines how these regimes of power interacted with colonial policies to inform the African experience in colonial Zimbabwe Further the book places land and the ability to ensure its fecundity at the center of the making and moderation of precolonial political power and how this power was impacted by the imposition of colonial rule Tracing the dynamics of land and power from precolonial times together with their entanglement with colonial policies is important for this relationship is almost always neglected by both scholars and policymakers drawn to the high drama of colonial and postcolonial politics of land This oversight has real consequences on our understandings of landed inequalities and how they are addressed When Zimbabwe's postcolonial state focused on colonially induced racialized land inequalities its land reform efforts left older forms of landed inequalities based on gender generation and ideas of belonging intact The book which details these inequalities reminds Zimbabweans and others that if the quest for equity espoused in postcolonial land reforms is to be meaningful it must be attentive to both colonially induced inequalities and those enduring disparities that predated were deepened by and outlived colonial rule At the same time Zimbabweans who now live with a postcolonial state that is increasingly centralizing power over land may well learn from past societies' creative efforts to limit the authority of their leaders

Science, Society and Power James Fairhead, Melissa Leach, 2003-10-16 In this book James Fairhead and Melissa Leach bring science to the heart of debates about globalisation exploring transformations in global science and contrasting effects in Guinea one of the world's poorest countries and Trinidad a more prosperous industrialised and urbanised island The book focuses on environment forestry and conservation sciences that are central to these countries and involve resources that many depend upon for their livelihoods It examines the relationships between policies bureaucracies and particular types of scientific enquiry and explores how ordinary people the media and educational practices engage with this In particular it shows how science becomes part of struggles over power resources and legitimacy The authors take a unique ethnographic perspective linking approaches in anthropology development and science studies They address critically prominent debates in each and explore opportunities for new forms of participation public engagement and transformation in the social relations of science
