But Now I See Fred Hobson, 1999-04-01 The term conversion narrative usually refers to a particular form of expression that arose in Puritan New England in the seventeenth century In that sense the purely religious the conversion narrative belongs to a rather remote history But in this lucid pathbreaking work Fred Hobson uses the expression in another sense in the realm of the secular to describe a much more recent phenomenon one originating in the American South and marking a new mode of southern self expression not seen until the 1940s Hobson applies the term racial conversion narrative to several autobiographies or works of highly personal social commentary by Lillian Smith James McBride Dabbs Katharine Du Pre Lumpkin Sarah Patton Boyle Will Campbell Larry L King Willie Morris Pat Watters and other southerners books written between the mid 1940s and the late 1970s in which the authors all products of and willing participants in a harsh segregated society confess racial wrongdoings and are converted in varying degrees from racism to something approaching racial enlightenment Indeed the language of many of these works is Hobson points out the language of religious conversion sin guilt blindness seeing the light repentance redemption and so forth Hobson also looks at recent autobiographical volumes by Ellen Douglas Elizabeth Spencer and Rick Bragg to show how the medium persists if in a somewhat different form even at the very end of the twentieth century But Now I See is a study both of this particular variety of the southern impulse to self examination and of those who seem to have retained the habit of seeking redemption even if of a secular variety Departing from the old vertical southern religion salvation centered with heaven as its goal these racial converts embrace a horizontal religion which holds that getting right with man is at least as important as getting right with God A refreshingly original treatment of racial change in the South Hobson's provocative work introduces a new subgenre in the field of southern literature Anyone interested in the history and literature of the American South will be fascinated by this searching volume

Irish-American Autobiography James Silas Rogers, 2017-01-27 This lively survey of the ever changing Irish American experience contains many perceptive and sometimes surprising observations The Irish Times Irish American Autobiography explores the evolution of Irishness in America through memoirs that describe define and redefine what it means to be Irish From athletes and entertainers to saloon keepers community activists and Catholic priests Irish Americans of all stripes share their thoughts and perceptions on their ever evolving ethnic identity Poet and Irish studies specialist

James Silas Rogers begins his evocative analysis with celebrity memoirs by athletes like boxer John L. Sullivan and ballplayer Connie Mack written when the Irish were eager to put their raffish origins behind them. Later he traces the many tensions registered by lesser known Irish Americans who've told their life stories. South Boston step dancers set themselves against the larger culture framing their identity as outsiders looking in. Even the classic 1950s sitcom The Honeymooners speaks to the poignant sense of exclusion felt by its creator Jackie Gleason. Rogers also examines the changing role of Catholicism as a cultural touchstone for Irish Americans and examines the painful diffidence of priest autobiographers. Irish American Autobiography becomes in the end a story of a continued search for connection documenting an ethnic fade that never quite happened. Canadian Books in Print. Rempel-Burkholder, Dora Dueck, 2010-03-18 Canada is known for its wild and diverse physical geography. But do Canadians have a spiritual geography, an identity uniquely shaped by their land, their history, their people? This first of its kind collection brings together writings from within the Christian heritage to help Canadians explore that question. The forty-six contributors include award-winning literary figures, religious and political leaders, and social activists from one end of Canada to the other. Their traditions range from evangelical to Catholic, mainline Protestant to Orthodox, Pentecostal to Mennonite. Some still have family connections beyond Canada's borders; others have ancestors who were here long before Europeans came. These writers do not analyze, define, or argue about Christianity in Canada. They simply showcase it through their memoir or poetry, fiction or meditation, mapping into words something of what it means to be Christian in this country. The spiritual landscape they paint is diverse, inspiring, and provocative. It's a colourful dance of words, a wonderful Canadian celebration. Louisiana History, 1998 Power in the Blood Linda Tate, 2009-03-09

Power in the Blood: A Family Narrative traces Linda Tate's journey to rediscover the Cherokee Appalachian branch of her family and provides an unflinching examination of the poverty, discrimination, and family violence that marked their lives. In her search for the truth of her own past, Tate scoured archives, libraries, and courthouses throughout Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Illinois, and Missouri; visited numerous cemeteries and combed through census records, marriage records, court cases, local histories, old maps, and photographs. As she began to locate distant relatives, fifth, sixth, seventh cousins, all descended from her great-great-grandmother, Louisiana, they gathered in kitchens and living rooms, held family reunions, and swapped stories. A past that had long been buried slowly came to light as family members shared the pieces of the family's tale that had been passed along to them. Power in the Blood is a dramatic family history that reads like a novel as Tate's compelling narrative reveals one mystery after another. Innovative and groundbreaking in its approach to research and storytelling, Power in the Blood shows that exploring a family story can enhance understanding of history, life, and culture, and that honest examination of the past can lead to healing and liberation in the present. American Book Publishing Record, 1997-09 Blood, Land, and Power Manuel software to make clusters of data and quantification This serves as illustrative example for future research on how to apply such methods to historical research The analysis of formation of new elites and powerful families and the social networks they belonged to serves to understand in the long run how groups and families in localities of southern Europe have consolidated their power and how political institutions then and now have served to the perpetuation of such families in the exercise of power Disputes and rivalry between factions elites and groups of power to control land as main economic source of power and political institutions have not ceased since the early modern period until today Southern and Mediterranean Europe localities are a good example in which fierce struggles between elite groups have lasted across space and time
