Power In The Land:

Pwer Yn y Tir Helen Grove-White, Annie Grove-White, 2016      Land and Power in Ptolemaic Egypt Joseph Gilbert Manning, 2003-05-29 This history of land tenure under the Ptolemies explores the relationship between the new Ptolemaic state and the ancient traditions of landholding and tenure Departing from the traditional emphasis on the Fayyum it offers a coherent framework for understanding the structure of the Ptolemaic state and thus of the economy as a whole Drawing for the first time on both Greek and demotic papyri as well as hieroglyphic inscriptions and theories taken from the social sciences Professor Manning argues that the traditional central state despotic model of the Egyptian economy is insufficient The result is a subtler picture of the complex relationship between the demands of the new state and the ancient locally organized social structure of Egypt By revealing the dynamics between central and local power in Egypt the book shows that Ptolemaic economic power ultimately shaped Roman Egyptian social and economic institutions      Society, Power, and Land in Northeastern Zimbabwe, ca. 1560-1960 Admire Mseba, 2024-11-12 A little over two decades ago Zimbabwe undertook its Fast Track Land Reform Programme Critics saw it as nothing more than an assault on human and property rights for political expedience by a ruling elite that was fast losing its power In contrast those sympathetic to the land reform program saw it as fundamental to the righting of colonialism s historical wrongs Yet rural displacements at the hands of state actors or of those closely connected to them continue As in the past the continuing land conflicts are mostly understood as the result of the actions of an authoritarian state that exploits its control of land for the political and economic benefit of those who inhabit it These explanations share one thing in common each understands the country s perpetual land questions in terms of the actions or inactions of the colonial or the postcolonial state This book refocuses attention on how regimes of power rooted in kinship gender generation and status have individually and in combination informed access to land in precolonial northeastern Zimbabwe It then examines how these regimes of power interacted with colonial policies to inform the African experience in colonial Zimbabwe Further the book places land and the ability to ensure its fecundity at the center of the making and moderation of precolonial political power and how this power was impacted by the imposition of colonial rule Tracing the dynamics of land and power from precolonial times together with their entanglement with colonial policies is important for this relationship is almost always neglected by both scholars and policymakers drawn to the high drama of colonial and postcolonial politics of land This oversight has real consequences on our understandings of landed inequalities and how they are addressed When Zimbabwe s postcolonial state focused on colonially induced racialized land inequalities its land reform efforts left older forms of landed inequalities based on gender generation and ideas of belonging intact The book which details these inequalities reminds Zimbabweans and others that if the quest for equity espoused in postcolonial land reforms is to be meaningful it must be attentive to both colonially induced inequalities and those enduring disparities that predated were deepened by and outlived colonial rule At the same time Zimbabweans who now live with a postcolonial state that is increasingly centralizing power over land may well learn from past societies creative efforts to limit the authority of their leaders

Land Based Air Power or Aircraft Carriers? Gjert Lage Dyndal, 2016-04-22 During the 1960s in the midst of its retreat from empire the British government had to grapple with complex political and military problems in order to find a strategic defence policy that was both credible and affordable Addressing what was perhaps the most contentious issue within those debates this book charts the arguments that raged between supporters of a land based air power strategy and those who favoured aircraft carriers Drawing upon a wealth of previously classified documents the book reveals how the Admiralty and Air Ministry became interlocked in a bitter political struggle over which of their military strategies could best meet Britain's future foreign policy challenges Whilst the broad story of this inter service rivalry is well known the Air Force's proposal for a series of island based airfields and the Navy championing of a small number of expensive but mobile aircraft carriers the complexity and previous lack of archival sources means that it has until now only ever been partially researched and understood Former studies have largely focused on the cancellation of the CVA 01 carrier programme and offered little depth as regards the Royal Air Force perspectives Given that this was a two Service rivalry which greatly influenced many aspects of British foreign and defence policy decisions of the period this book presents an important and balanced overview of the complex issues involved Through this historical study of the British debate about maritime air power and strategic alternatives in the 1960s the detailed arguments used for and against both alternatives demonstrate clear relevance to both historical and contemporary conceptual debates on carrier forces and land based air power Both from military strategy and inter service relationship perspectives contemporary Britain and many other nations with maritime forces may learn much from this historical case

Saunders, 2020-10-12 In this original report EIRP President Paul J Saunders assesses over 100 academic studies and government reports on solar and wind power and presents five key findings The paper does not encourage or discourage adoption of solar and wind power instead it presents information helpful for policymakers stakeholders and others interested in solar and wind development

Land Power Michael Albertus, 2025-01-14 An award winning political scientist shows that a society's path to prosperity sustainability and equality depends on who owns the land For millennia land has been a symbol of wealth and privilege But the true power of land ownership is even greater than we might think In Land Power political scientist Michael Albertus shows that who owns the land determines whether a society will be equal or unequal whether it will develop or decline and whether it will safeguard or sacrifice its environment Modern history has been defined by land reallocation on a massive scale From the 1500s on European colonial powers and new nation states shifted indigenous lands into the hands of settlers The 1900s brought new waves of land appropriation from Soviet and Maoist collectivization to initiatives turning large estates over to family farmers The shuffle continues today as governments vie for power and prosperity by choosing who should get land Drawing on a career's worth of original research and on the ground fieldwork Albertus shows that choices about who owns the land have locked in poverty sexism racism and climate crisis and that what we do with the land today can change our collective fate Global in scope Land Power argues that saving civilization must begin with the earth under our feet The Power in the Land Fred Harrison,1983 Naval Power and Expeditionary Wars Bruce A. Elleman,S.C.M. Paine,2010-12-09 This book examines the nature and character of naval expeditionary warfare in particular in peripheral campaigns and the contribution of such campaigns to the achievement of strategic victory Naval powers which can lack the massive ground forces to win in the main theatre often choose a secondary theatre accessible to them by sea and difficult for their enemies to reach by land giving the sea power and its expeditionary forces the advantage The technical term for these theatres is peripheral operations The subject of peripheral campaigns in naval expeditionary warfare is central to the British the US and the Australian way of war in the past and in the future All three are reluctant to engage large land forces because of the high human and economic costs Instead they rely as much as possible on sea and air power and the latter is most often in the form of carrier based aviation In order to exert pressure on their enemies they have often opened additional theaters in on going regional and civil wars This book contains thirteen case studies by some of the foremost naval historians from the United States Great Britain and Australia whose collected case studies examine the most important peripheral operations of the last two centuries This book will be of much interest to students of naval warfare military history strategic studies and security studies Land and Power in Khorezm Tommaso Trevisani,2010 This is the first detailed grass roots account of Uzbekistan's protracted decollectivisation process It explores continuity and the change in relations between rural communities agricultural producers and the local state authorities in the cotton growing region of Khorezm Built up during the Soviet period the cotton sector has maintained its importance for the state and for rural communities in the years following independence although economic parameters and social conditions have worsened significantly Uzbekistan's agricultural reform path does not follow that of most post socialist scenarios and continuity with the past remains strong Despite seeming immobility the local view on rural society presented in this book unveils an unexpectedly dynamic situation characterized by shifts in patronage relations struggles over legitimacy and transformations in family structure and community life Poised between the state their communities and an emerging stratum of absentee farm sponsors the focus is on the new farmers farmer and their struggles for a place in rural society What emerges from decollectivisation is a complexly articulated new agrarian concern its new inequalities are rooted in the political economy of cotton Series Halle Studies in the Anthropology of Eurasia Vol 23 Studies of Farm Land Prices and Ownership Ward C.
