Power In The Southern Cone Borderlands An Anthropology Of Development Practice:

Power in the Southern Cone Borderlands Carmen A. Ferradas, 1998-07-23 Development is not an all powerful machinery imposing its will upon powerless actors Rather it is a complex process that brings together multiple actors with diverse agendas Participants power in affecting outcomes results from their ability to mobilize discursive and material resources and to control and manipulate time and spatial contexts This work critically examines development practices and various forms of collective action based on detailed ethnographical analysis of the Yacyret hydroelectric project The story unfolds in the borderlands of Paraguay and Argentina in the heart of the Latin American Southern Cone where local political cultures are responding to global forces that now dictate economic integration Although relatively unknown today to the world this area promises to exert a strong global impact in the near future The saga of the Yacyret hydroelectric project on the Argentina Paraguay border not only illustrates the radical change in the power dynamics of the Latin American Southern Cone region but also reflects the transformation of development discourse and practice during the last decades It examines the relationship between the weakened role of the nation state in decision making and the emergence of nongovernmental organizations and grassroots movements as key development actors Because the Yacyret dam is being built in the borderlands of two countries as a binational undertaking it threatens the boundedness of nation states precisely where sovereignty is traditionally guarded the national frontiers Under these and other global challenges of deterritorialation such as processes of regional integration encouraged by Mercosur Common Market of the South popular conflicts have become spatialized reflecting both the resilience of national imaginings and histories of exclusion and exploitation This study demystifies populist and romanticized academic constructions of subaltern groups It shows that the outcomes of popular struggles can be one of accomodation and cooperation and not resistance Nonetheless they constitute serious threats to planned development It challenges current approaches in development that advocate participation empowerment and communication

Borderlines and Borderlands Alexander C. Diener, Joshua Hagen, 2010 From our earliest schooldays we are shown the world as a colorful collage of countries each defined by their own immutable borders What we often don't realize is that every political boundary was created by people No political border is more natural or real than another yet some international borders make no apparent sense at all While focusing on some of these unusual border shapes this fascinating book highlights the important truth that all borders even those that appear normal are social constructions In an era where the continued relevance of the nation state is being questioned and where transnationalism is altering the degree to which borders effectively demarcate spaces of belonging the contributors argue that this point is vital to our understanding of the world The unique and compelling histories of some of the world's oddest borders provide an ideal context for this group of experts to offer accessible and enlightening discussions of cultural globalization economic integration international migration imperialism postcolonialism global terrorism nationalism and supranationalism Each author's regional expertise enriches a textured account of the historical context in which these borders came into existence as well as their historical and ongoing influence on the people and states they bound To view more maps from the David Rumsey Map Collection visit www.davidrumsey.com Contributions by Eric D Carter Karen Culcasi Alexander C Diener Joshua Hagen Reece Jones Robert Lloyd Nick Megoran Julian V Minghi David Newman Robert Ostergren and William C Rowe

Storytelling Globalization from the Chaco and Beyond Mario Blaser, 2010-09-07 An ethnography exploring the encounter between modernizing visions of development the place based life projects of the Yshiro indigenous people of the Paraguayan Chaco and the agendas of scholars and activists , Hydropolitics Christine Folch, 2019-09-03 An in depth look at the people and institutions connected with the Itaipoe Dam the world's biggest producer of renewable energy Hydropolitics is a groundbreaking investigation of the world's largest power plant and the ways energy shapes politics and economics

Environmentalism under Authoritarian Regimes Stephen Brain, Viktor Pál, 2018-10-26 Since the early 2000s authoritarianism has risen as an increasingly powerful global phenomenon This shift has not only social and political implications but also environmental implications authoritarian leaders seek to recast the relationship between society and the government in every aspect of public life including environmental policy When historians of technology or the environment have investigated the environmental consequences of authoritarian regimes they have frequently argued that authoritarian regimes have been unable to produce positive environmental results or adjust successfully to global structural change if they have shown any concern for the environment at all Put another way the scholarly consensus holds that authoritarian regimes on both the left and the right generally have demonstrated an anti environmentalist bias and when opposed by environmentalist social movements have succeeded in silencing those voices This book explores the theme of environmental politics and authoritarian regimes on both the right and the left The authors argue that in instances when environmentalist policies offer the possibility of bolstering a country's domestic nationalist appeal or its international prestige authoritarian regimes can endorse and have endorsed environmental protective measures The collection of essays analyzes environmentalist initiatives pursued by authoritarian regimes and provides explanations for both the successes and failures of such regimes looking at a range of case studies from a number of countries including Brazil China Poland and Zimbabwe The volume contributes to the scholarly debate about the social and political preconditions necessary for effective environmental protection This book will be of great interest to those studying environmental history and politics environmental humanities ecology and geography Before the Flood Jacob Blanc, 2019-11-15 In Before the Flood Jacob Blanc traces the protest movements of rural Brazilians living in the shadow of the Itaipu dam the largest producer of hydroelectric power in the world In the 1970s and 1980s local communities facing displacement took a stand against the military officials overseeing the dam's construction and in the context of an emerging national fight for democracy they elevated their struggle for land into a referendum on the dictatorship itself Unlike the broader campaign against military rule

however the conflict at Itaipu was premised on issues that long predated the official start of dictatorship access to land the defense of rural and indigenous livelihoods and political rights in the countryside In their efforts against Itaipu and through conflicts among themselves title owning farmers landless peasants and the Av Guaraní Indians articulated a rural based vision for democracy Through interviews and archival research including declassified military documents and the first ever access to the Itaipu Binational Corporation Before the Flood challenges the primacy of urban focused narratives and unearths the rural experiences of dictatorship and democracy in Brazil Manifold Destiny John Tofik Karam, 2021-01-15 Electronic open access edition funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities At the border where Brazil Paraguay and Argentina meet under the scrutiny of the US and Mercosur the large South American trade bloc Arabs have long fulfilled what author John Tofik Karam calls a manifold destiny Karam casts Lebanese Palestinians and Syrians at this American border as circumstantial protagonists of a hemispheric saga For the more than six decades since they started settling at the trinational border between Brazil Paraguay and Argentina Arabs have animated the hemisphere Their transnational economic and social projects reveal a heretofore unacknowledged venue of exceptional rule in which the community accommodates and abides multiple states varied suspensions of norms and laws Arabs set up businesses and community centers at the border under authoritarian military governments between the 1950s and 1980s thereafter when denied full democratic enfranchisement they instead underwent increasing surveillance from the 1990s to today Karam reveals an unfinished history of exceptional rule that Arabs accommodate from an authoritarian past to a counterterrorist present Karam's riveting account draws on anthropological and historical research from each side of this trinational South American border as well as from the US where government bureaucrats still suspect Arabs at the border of would be terrorist subversion Offering a fresh understanding of the hemisphere Manifold Destiny brings the transnational turn of Middle Eastern studies to bear upon the fields of American studies Brazilian studies and Latin American studies The Eastern Anthropologist, 2000 The Journal of Developing Areas, 1997 American Anthropologist: Volume 100, Number 3, September 1998, 1999 Latin American Research Review, 1998 Choice, 1999 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1999 American Book Publishing Record Cumulative 1998 R R Bowker Publishing, 1999-03

Bibliographic Guide to Latin American Studies, 1979 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 1998 Derecho a exigir respuestas, 2005 Mediante el estudio de casos paradigmáticos en la Argentina Brasil India y China entre otras naciones esta obra colectiva examina el funcionamiento del Panel de Inspección del Banco Mundial uno de los pocos mecanismos de participación de la sociedad civil creado en el marco de las instituciones financieras internacionales A través de este mecanismo las personas y grupos sociales directamente afectados por un proyecto financiado por el Banco como Yaciret para la Argentina y Paraguay o el Puente Jamuna en la India tienen derecho a solicitar una investigación independiente que evalúe si la institución cumple con sus propias políticas En esta obra se examina el desarrollo del Panel convertido en un nuevo

escenario de lucha en el que coaliciones de la sociedad civil impugnan la conducta de los funcionarios del Banco Mundial en casos de catstrofes medioambientales desplazamientos forzosos y masivos de comunidades usurpaci n de territorios indigenas y reducci n de planes asistenciales para los sectores m s pobres Changing Places William Meverell Loker,2004

Changing Places describes and analyzes patterns of environmental and social change in a region of rural Honduras over a 15 year period 1983 1998 The people of this region were subject to economic dislocations caused by the construction of a major hydroelectric dam that flooded more than 6 000 hectares of mostly agricultural land In addition residents have been forced to adapt to broader processes of rapid social and economic change associated with globalization over the same period these responses include increased rates of employment in maquiladora plants and migration to the U S The book examines the environmental consequences of the dam the response of local people to dam induced changes the ecological effects of changing land use patterns and the challenges to local livelihoods posed by globalization Loker looks at the failure of post dam resettlement as well as subsequent environment and development projects in the region and presents an analysis of the role of structural power social capital and community divisions in frustrating development efforts Changing Places examines both the social and environmental dimensions of the intersection between the local and the global The book will be of interest to scholars and professionals in a variety of fields including anthropology geography environmental studies international relations international development policy students of globalization and global environmental problems deforestation species loss and those interested in Latin America generally and Central America specifically His multifaceted approach truly captures the story of a community experiencing substantial change Human Ecology The Publishers' Trade List Annual,1998
