Abstract: This book distinguishes different types of work and labour by different patterns of power relations involved in production. Six power patterns are analyzed and described which are found mainly within the current categories of low-waged, informal sector, precarious work, etc.. People working in, or associated with, subsistence and peasant agriculture, casual, small enterprises, self-employment and household are covered in separate chapters. It is argued that this approach is more suitable for policy and transformational efforts than conventional divisions.
