

1

Prélèvement en élevage

Les équipes techniques ou l'éleveur lui-même prélèvent des échantillons (sang ou poils) sur des jeunes animaux d'ascendance connue mais sans performance enregistrée. Le prélèvement peut être effectué à partir d'un échantillon de poils. Il est nécessaire d'arracher au minimum 40 poils avec bulbes au bas de la queue et de les glacer correctement dans le kit GD Scan.

2

Extraction de l'ADN

Extraction et purification de l'ADN

3

Génotypage par les poudres à ADN

Détection des QTL (régions sur chromosome associées aux caractères à évaluer) par les marqueurs génétiques. Des sondes positionnées sur la puce à ADN identifient les marqueurs. L'identification du marqueur est signalée par une molécule fluorescente.

6

Fiche remise à l'éleveur

Une fiche synthétique individuelle qui reprend tous les caractères évalués pour un animal est remise à l'éleveur. Le nouvel index génomique devient l'index "officiel" de l'animal, il est directement intégré au logiciel Optigen afin de prendre en compte ces éléments dans le conseil d'accouplement.

5

Application du modèle de prédiction

Les données génomiques vont ensuite être décryptées et la valeur génétique va être optimisée par le modèle prédictif.

4

Analyse par le scanner iScan

Les échantillons sont analysés sur le lecteur iScan, un scanner optique à fluorescence.

Viruses: Essential Agents of Life Günther Witzany, 2012-11-13 A renaissance of virus research is taking centre stage in biology Empirical data from the last decade indicate the important roles of viruses both in the evolution of all life and as symbionts of host organisms There is increasing evidence that all cellular life is colonized by exogenous and or endogenous viruses in a non lytic but persistent lifestyle Viruses and viral parts form the most numerous genetic matter on this planet

Efficiency, Sustainability, and Justice to Future Generations Klaus Mathis, 2011-08-13 Fifty years after the famous essay The Problem of Social Cost 1960 by the Nobel laureate Ronald Coase Law and Economics seems to have become the lingua franca of American jurisprudence and although its influence on European jurisprudence is only moderate by comparison it has also gained popularity in Europe A highly influential publication of a different nature was the Brundtland Report 1987 which extended the concept of sustainability from forestry to the whole of the economy and society According to this report development is sustainable when it meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs A key requirement of sustainable development is justice to future generations It is still a matter of fact that the law as well as the theories of justice are generally restricted to the resolution of conflicts between contemporaries and between people living in the same country This in turn raises a number of questions what is the philosophical justification for intergenerational justice What bearing does sustainability have on the efficiency principle How do we put a policy of sustainability into practice and what is the role of the law in doing so The present volume is devoted to these questions In Part One Law and Economics the role of economic analysis and efficiency in law is examined more closely Part Two Law and Sustainability engages with the themes of sustainable development and justice to future generations Finally Part Three Law Economics and Sustainability addresses the interrelationships between the different aspects Index

The $1,000 Genome Kevin Davies, 2010-09-07 In 2000 President Bill Clinton signaled the completion of the Human Genome Project at a cost in excess of 2 billion A decade later the price for any of us to order our own personal genome sequence a comprehensive map of the 3 billion letters in our DNA is rapidly and inevitably dropping to just 1 000

Dozens of men and women scientists entrepreneurs celebrities and patients have already been sequenced pioneers in a bold new era of personalized genomic medicine The 1 000 genome has long been considered the tipping point that would open the floodgates to this revolution Do you have gene variants associated with Alzheimer's or diabetes heart disease or cancer Which drugs should you consider taking for various diseases and at what dosage In the years to come doctors will likely be able to tackle all of these questions and many more by using a computer in their offices to call up your unique genome sequence which will become as much a part of your medical record as your blood pressure Indeed many experts are advocating that all newborns have a complete genome analysis done so that preventive measures and preemptive medicine can begin early in life How has this astonishing achievement been accomplished And what will it mean for our lives To research the story of this unfolding revolution critically acclaimed science writer Kevin Davies has spent the past few years traveling to the leading centers and interviewing the entrepreneurs and pioneers in the race to achieve the 1 000 genome He vividly brings to life the extraordinary drama of this grand scientific achievement revealing the masterful ingenuity that has transformed the process of decoding DNA and delivering the information it possesses to the public at large Davies also profiles the future of genomic medicine and thoughtfully explores the many pressing issues raised by the tidal wave of personal genetic information Will your privacy be protected Will you be pressured by insurance companies or by your employer to get your genome sequenced What psychological toll might there be to discovering you are at risk for certain diseases like Alzheimer's And will the government or the medical establishment come between you and your genome One thing that is not in question is that we are moving swiftly into the personalized medicine era and The 1 000 Genome is an essential guide to this brave new future
