Encountering Faith in the Classroom Miriam R. Diamond, 2023-07-03 When faculty unexpectedly encounter students religious ideologies in the classroom they may respond with apprehension frustration dread or concern Instructors may view this exchange as a confrontation that threatens the very heart of empirical study and worry that this will lead to a dead end in the learning process The purpose of this book is to explore what happens and what can happen in the higher education and even secondary school classroom when course content meets or collides with students religious beliefs It also considers the impact on learning in an environment where students may feel threatened angry misunderstood or in which they feel their convictions are being discredited This is a resource that offers ways of conceptualizing engaging with and responding to student beliefs This book is divided into three sections student views on the role of religion in the classroom general guidelines for responding to or actively engaging religious beliefs in courses such as legal and diversity considerations and specific examples from a number of disciplines including the sciences social sciences humanities and professional education Professors from public private and religious institutions share their findings and insights The resounding lessons of this book are the importance of creating a learning space in which students can express their beliefs dissonance and emotions constructively without fear of retribution and of establishing ground rules of respectful discussion for this process to be valuable and productive This is an inspirational and practical guide for faculty navigating the controversial sensitive yet illuminating lessons that can be learned when religion takes a seat in the classroom

American Evangelicals Today Corwin E. Smidt, 2015-02-03 American Evangelicals Today assesses the contemporary social religious and political characteristics of evangelical Protestants today and it does so in light of 1 whether these characteristics are similar to or different from the corresponding characteristics of adherents of other major faith traditions in American religious life and 2 the extent which these particular characteristics among evangelicals may have changed over the past four decades In addition it analyzes the extent which evangelicals are divided today and it does so within the framework of four potential factors that might shape such divisions racial ethnic differences generational differences educational differences and religious differences American Evangelicals Today is designed to serve as an accessible but scholarly overview of American evangelicals one that is appealing to all scholars students and laity alike Smidt offers a discussion of the nature of evangelical Protestantism highlights the particular analytical issues at play when one seeks to determine just who are to be classified as evangelicals and reveals some of the contradictory findings that can emerge through the use of these different analytical frameworks for defining evangelicals The volume not only analyzes the current characteristics of evangelicals in light of those exhibited by other religious traditions as well as how evangelicals have changed over time but it looks toward the future addressing generational differences and other possible factors for change among evangelical Protestants

A Matter of Faith David E. Campbell, 2007-09-01 Moral values dominated the post election headlines in 2004 Analysts pointed to exit polls strong turnout among evangelicals and controversy over gay marriage as evidence that the election had been decided along religious lines Soon however this explanation was called into question In A Matter of Faith distinguished scholars go beyond the headlines to assess the role of religion in the 2004 election Were issues such as stem cell research really more influential than the economy and Iraq Did deeply religious Americans necessarily vote Republican Was the morality factor really a dramatic new development David E Campbell and his colleagues examine the religious affiliations of voters and party elite and evaluate the claim that moral values were decisive in 2004 The authors analyze strategies used to mobilize religious conservatives and examine the voting behavior of a broad range of groups including evangelicals African Americans and the understudied religious left This rich perspective on faith and politics is essential reading on a critical aspect of American politics Contributors include John Green University of Akron Pew Forum on Religion and Public Life James Guth Furman University Sunshine Hillygus Harvard University Laura Hussey University of Baltimore John Jackson University of Southern Illinois Scott Keeter Pew Research Center for the People and the Press Lyman Kellstedt Wheaton College Geoffrey Layman University of Maryland David Leal University of Texas at Austin David Leege Notre Dame Eric McDaniel University of Texas at Austin Quin Monson Brigham Young University Barbara Norrander University of Arizona Jan Norrander University of Minnesota Baxter Oliphant Brigham Young University Corwin Smidt Calvin College and Matthew Wilson Southern Methodist University
