Albin Wallace

Mediaeval Craftsmen:

Mediaeval Craftsmen John Harvey, 1975 English Medieval Industries John Blair, Nigel Ramsay, 1991-01-01 This work is intended as a modern successor to L F Salzman's English Industries in the Middle Ages 1913 The approach to each industry is by material discussing its acquisition working and sale as a finished product Only industries that resulted in the production of consumer goods and where substantial numbers of artefacts survive from the Middle Ages are dealt with fishing and brewing are therefore omitted the text is illustrated by pictures of surviving objects and contemporary representations of medieval work

Building Craftsmen in Late Medieval York Heather Swanson, 1983 Mediaeval Craftsmen John Harvey, 1975 Mediaeval English Mystery Plays, Rituals, and Archetypes Albin Wallace, 2024-04-10 This book examines the mediaeval English mystery play the importance of ritual and archetypes and how masonic traditions may have been influenced by these mediaeval dramas Similarly to mystery plays elements of masonic ceremonial use symbolic characters archetypes stories and rituals to convey moral and spiritual teachings to its members The rituals are steeped in symbolism and draw on a wide range of historical and cultural sources Masonic rituals and mediaeval plays both emphasise community and fellowship This book attempts to highlight the enduring power of symbolic performance archetypes and the importance of belonging and fellowship in the pursuit of moral and spiritual improvement The connection between ritual and mediaeval mystery plays is a tantalising subject of much debate as Freemasonry is a fraternity claimed to have its roots in the mediaeval stonemasons guilds whose members certainly participated in the mystery plays especially those that depicted biblical stories relating to the building of King Solomon's temple

Arts and Crafts in the Middle Ages Julia de Wolf Gibbs Addison, 1921 Masons and Sculptors Nicola Coldstream, 1991 Medieval Illuminators and Their Methods of Work Jonathan James Graham Alexander, 1992-01-01 Who were the medieval illuminators How were their hand produced books illustrated and decorated In this beautiful book Jonathan Alexander presents a survey of manuscript illumination throughout Europe from the fourth to the sixteenth century He discusses the social and historical context of the illuminators lives considers their methods of work and presents a series of case studies to show the range and nature of the visual sources and the ways in which they were adapted copied or created anew Alexander explains that in the early period Christian monasteries and churches were the main centers for the copying of manuscripts and so the majority of illuminators were monks working in and for their own monasteries From the eleventh century lay scribes and illuminators became increasingly numerous and by the thirteenth century professional illuminators dominated the field During this later period illuminators were able to travel in search of work and to acquire new ideas they joined guilds with scribes or with artists in the cities and their ranks included nuns and secular women Work was regularly collaborative and the craft was learned through an apprenticeship system Alexander carefully analyzes surviving manuscripts and medieval treatises in order to explain the complex and time consuming technical processes of illumination its materials methods tools choice of illustration and execution From rare surviving contracts he deduces the preoccupation of patrons with materials and schedules Illustrating his discussion with examples chosen from religious and secular manuscripts made all over Europe Alexander recreates the astonishing variety and creativity of medieval illumination His book will be a standard reference for years to come

Craftsmen and Jewelers in the Middle and Lower Danube Region (6th to 7th Centuries) Daniela Tănase, 2020-11-23 In Craftsmen and Jewelers in the Middle and Lower Danube Region 6th to 7th Centuries Daniela Tănase examines the practice of metalworking with the aim of comparing the archaeological evidence of different peoples in the Middle and Lower Danube in the Early Middle Ages with a particular focus on blacksmithing goldsmithing and burial customs Evidence suggests that the distinction between these specialties was quite fluid so blacksmiths could craft jewelry while jewelers were able to create tools and weapons The study also reveals how the production process and the main techniques employed by craftsmen for the ornamentation of dress and accessories were subject to multiple influences from Byzantium the eastern steppe and the Merovingian kingdoms

All Things Medieval Ruth A. Johnston, 2011-08-15 This insightful survey of the things of medieval Europe allows modern readers to understand what they looked like what they were made of how they were created and how they were used All Things Medieval An Encyclopedia of the Medieval World covers the widest definition of medieval Europe possible not by covering history in the traditional textbook manner of listing wars leaders and significant historic events but by presenting detailed alphabetical entries that describe the artifacts of medieval Europe By examining the hidden material culture and by presenting information about topics that few books cover pottery locks and keys shoes weaving looms barrels toys pets ink kitchen utensils and much more readers get invaluable insights into the nature of life during that time period and area The heartland European regions such as England France Italy and Germany are covered extensively and information regarding the objects of regions such as Byzantium Muslim Spain and Scandinavia are also included For each topic of material culture the entry considers the full scope of the medieval period roughly 500 1450 to give the reader a historical perspective of related traditions or inventions and describes the craftsmen and tools that produced it

The Rood in Medieval Britain and Ireland, C.800-c.1500

Philippa Turner, Jane Hawkes, 2020 New readings demonstrate the centrality of the rood to the visual material and devotional cultures of the Middle Ages its richness and complexity The rood was central to medieval Christianity and its visual culture Christ's death on the cross was understood as the means by which humankind was able to gain salvation and depictions of the cross and Christ's death upon it were ubiquitous This volume brings together contributions offering a new perspective on the medieval rood understood in its widest sense as any kind of cross within the context of Britain and Ireland over a wide period of time which saw significant political and cultural change In doing so it crosses geographical chronological material and functional boundaries which have traditionally characterised many previous discussions of the medieval rood Acknowledging and exploring the capacity of the rood to be both universal and specific to particular locations and audiences these contributions also tease out the ways in which roods related to one another as well as how they related to their physical and cultural surroundings often functioning in dialogue with other images and the wider devotional topography both material and mental in which they were set The chapters consider roods in a variety of media and contexts the monumental stone crosses of early medieval England twelfth century Ireland and spreading further afield late medieval Galicia the three dimensional monumental wooden roods in English monasteries Irish friaries and East Anglian parish churches roods that fit in the palm of a hand encased in precious metals those that were painted on walls drawn on the pages of manuscripts and those that appeared in visions dreams and gesture related to one another as well as how they related to their physical and cultural surroundings often functioning in dialogue with other images and the wider devotional topography both material and mental in which they were set The chapters consider roods in a variety of media and contexts the monumental stone crosses of early medieval England twelfth century Ireland and spreading further afield late medieval Galicia the three dimensional monumental wooden roods in English monasteries Irish friaries and East Anglian parish churches roods that fit in the palm of a hand encased in precious metals those that were painted on walls drawn on the pages of manuscripts and those that appeared in visions dreams and gesture related to one another as well as how they related to their physical and cultural surroundings often functioning in dialogue with other images and the wider devotional topography both material and mental
