Nursing Older People Sally J. Redfern, Fiona Ross, 2006. Nursing Older People focuses on evidence-based care and the effectiveness of interventions that support independence. It takes a person-centred approach to understanding and meeting the needs and problems that nurses and other practitioners deal with every day, such as the need to reduce the difficulties faced by problems of pain, immobility, breathlessness, eating and drinking, and eliminating, for example. The accessible evidence-based information in this book will help to give practitioners the confidence to challenge the status quo and look for ways to improve the quality of care.

Work-Lifestyle Choices in the 21st Century Catherine Hakim, 2000-11-02. In this book, Hakim presents a new multi-disciplinary theory for explaining and predicting current and future patterns of women's choice between employment and family work. Preference theory is the first theory developed specifically to explain women's behaviour and choices. As such, it constitutes a major break from male-centred theorizing to date in sociology and economics. Preference theory is grounded on the substantial body of new research on women's work and fertility that has flourished within feminist scholarship. It identifies five major historical changes that collectively are producing a qualitatively new scenario for women in prosperous societies in the 21st century. Throughout the analysis, the USA and Britain illustrate what the new scenario means for women, how it alters their preferences and work/lifestyle choices. Hakim also reviews research evidence on contemporary developments across Europe, Canada, Australia, Japan and the Far East to develop a new theory that is genuinely international in perspective.

Digital Health Technologies for Shared Decision Making Marcus Cheetham, Christoph A. Meier, Nikola Biller-Andorno, Helena Canha, Anna Lisa Martin-Niedecken, Annina Gähwiler, 2025-05-22. Patient decision aids provide a promising means to empower patients to prepare and participate in Shared Decision Making SDM with health care professionals A wide range of clinically validated and non validated digital and non digital patient decision aids continue to be developed for use in diverse settings and clinical interventions The end users of a given aid may be heterogeneous in their needs abilities backgrounds and personal characteristics Many patient decision aids are developed with the aim of helping patients clarify and communicate their subjective values and preferences in relation to the medical choices at hand Knowledge of these values and preferences can help patients and health care professionals determine the medical intervention that is right for the patient Digital health technologies present unique opportunities for creating new ways to advance the design adoption usage and evaluation of patient centred decision aids and support the clarification and communication of subjective values and preferences However there is a dearth of systematic research on these opportunities This Research Topic focuses on the current use of and the opportunities that digital technologies present for furthering the design development deployment and usefulness of patient decision aids Potential themes include but are not limited to 1 Digital technology and patient decision aids 2 New approaches designs developments and innovations 3 Human factors in elucidating subjective values and preferences 4 Awareness and real world use of digital patient decision aids 5 Usability and acceptability of digital patient decision aids 6 Current and potential applications in different settings 7 Barriers and facilitators to use of digital technology in SDM 8 Future possibilities and challenges of patient decision aids and digital technology 9 Inclusion diversity and accessibility of patient decision aids with digital technology and 10 Ethical technical and regulatory design considerations This Research Topic welcomes original research review method and theory and perspective articles that address the diversity of themes around digital health technologies and human factors in patient decision aids Brief research reports and mini reviews are also encouraged Articles types should be selected that correspond with the stage of research and scope of the contribution ACCCN's Critical
