The Stratifying Trade Union Shaul A. Duke, 2017-10-17 This book examines a basic assumption behind most of the critical progressive thinking of our times that trade unions are necessarily tools for solidarity and are integral to a more equal and just society Shaul A Duke assesses the trade union's potential to promote equality in ethnically and racially diverse societies by offering an in depth look into how unions operate how power flows between union levels where inequality originates and the role of union members in union dynamics By analyzing the trade union's effects on working class inequality in Palestine during 1920 1948 this book shifts the conventional emphasis on worker employer relations to that of worker worker relations It offers a conceptualization of how strong union members directed union policy from below in order to eliminate competition often by excluding marginalized groups The comparison of the union experiences of Palestinian Arabs Jewish Yemeni immigrants and Jewish women offers a fresh look into the labor history of Palestine and its social stratification

The Decline of Trade Union Organisation P.B. Beaumont, 2024-10-21 The Decline of Trade Union Organisation 1987 considers the reasons behind the decline in trade union membership and discusses the prospects for recovery It shows that many factors were at work besides unemployment growth and overall it argues that the changing structure and nature of British industry was having a fundamental affect on the nature of trade union activity It points to legislation which protects individual employees without the need for union involvement to the fact that a major growth area is the private services sector which has been traditionally poorly unionised and the rise in smaller non union cyclical It therefore provides a backdrop for understanding some of the options for structural change that may be adopted by trade unions in the future Establishing a framework within which the historical development of the merger process may be understood the book identifies three central sets of relationships the bargaining position of unions relative to employers and the state the bargaining position of a union relative to competitor unions and factional bargaining within unions Collectively the three relationships are referred to as the politics of bargaining and are used to explain changes in the rate and character of trade union structural development
