African Theology Emmanuel Martey, 2009-11-01 Two major strands of theology have developed in Africa inculturation and liberation each in response to different needs Emmanuel Martey's African Theology provides a clear scholarly examination of these two basic approaches solidly based on Martey's understanding of contemporary theology and his firsthand knowledge of Africa Martey first examines the historical background of each of these theological developments especially relating to cultural and political movements enveloping the continent in the 1970s In sub Saharan Africa struggles for independence from colonizers have resulted in inculturation theology The defining aspect of this theology is that it pushes its roots firmly in African culture and traditions In South Africa on the other hand Black Africans struggling against the oppressive systems of apartheid have turned to liberation theology Martey shows how the real hope for African theology lies in the dialectical encounter between these two approaches and in their potential for convergence The two foci of liberation and inculturation Martey says are not contradictory but complement each other African Theology concludes by challenging African theologians to weld together the praxis of inculturation with that of liberation in order to achieve an integrative

Byfield, 2021-07-09 This social and intellectual history of women s political activism in postwar Nigeria reveals the importance of gender to the study of nationalism and poses new questions about Nigeria s colonial past and independent future In the years following World War II the women of Abeokuta Nigeria staged a successful tax revolt that led to the formation first of the Abeokuta Women's Union and then of Nigeria's first national women's organization the Nigerian Women's Union in 1949 These organizations became central to a new political vision a way for women across Nigeria to define their interests desires and needs while fulfilling the obligations and responsibilities of citizenship In The Great Upheaval Judith A Byfield has crafted a finely textured social and intellectual history of gender and nation making that not only tells a story of women's postwar activism but also grounds it in a nuanced account of the complex tax system that generated the upheaval Byfield captures the dynamism of women's political engagement in Nigeria's postwar period and illuminates the centrality of gender to the study of nationalism She thus offers new lines of inquiry into the late colonial era and its consequences for the future Nigerian state Ultimately she challenges readers to problematize the collapse of her female subjects' greatest aspiration universal franchise when the country achieved independence in 1960 Longman Companion to European Decolonisation in the Twentieth Century Muriel E. July, 2004 For the better part of two centuries racial domination has been the central concern of African social thought Other questions among them national identity the role of chieftaincy representation justice and constitutional design have often been defined in relation to a preoccupation with racial and colonial forms of domination This book by examining the history of African thought will prove an invaluable tool to those new thinkers who have begun to revisit the intellectual history of Africa at the outset of the twenty first century External Research ,1964
