Nanosensors Teik-Cheng Lim,2016-04-19 Nanosensors are rapidly becoming a technology of choice across diverse fields They offer effective and affordable options for detecting and measuring chemical and physical properties in difficult to reach biological and industrial systems operating at the nanoscale However with nanosensor development occurring in so many fields it has become difficult

The Technological Indian Ross Bassett,2016-02-15 In the late 1800s India seemed to be left behind by the Industrial Revolution Today there are many technological Indians around the world but relatively few focus on India's problems Ross Bassett drawing on a database of every Indian to graduate from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology through 2000 explains the role of MIT in this outcome

Time, Communication and Global Capitalism Wayne Hope,2016-04-08 In this book Wayne Hope analyzes the double relation between time and global capitalism In order to do this he cross relates four epistemes of time epochality time reckoning temporality and coevalness with four materializations of time hegemony conflict crisis and rupture Using this framework allows Hope to argue that global capitalism is epochally distinctive riven by time conflicts prone to recurring crises and vulnerable to collective opposition These critical insights are not easily thematized in a mediated world of real time reflexivity detemporalized presentism and denials of coevalness associated with structural exclusions of the poor However the worldwide repercussions of the 2008 financial collapse and the resulting confluence of occupation movements riots protests strike activity and anti austerity activism raises the prospect of a rupture within and beyond global capitalism

Game On David Bockino,2024-04 Game On tells the story of how and why the sports media industry grew to become one of the most important and profitable components of the global entertainment landscape

In the Bubble John Thackara,2006-02-17 How to design a world in which we rely less on stuff and more on people We're filling up the world with technology and devices but we've lost sight of an important question What is this stuff for What value does it add to our lives So asks author John Thackara in his new book In the Bubble Designing for a Complex World These are tough questions for the pushers of technology to answer Our economic system is centered on technology so it would be no small matter if tech ceased to be an end in itself in our daily lives Technology is not going to go away but the time to discuss the end it will serve is before we deploy it not after We need to ask what purpose will be served by the broadband communications smart materials wearable computing and connected appliances that we're unleashing upon the world We need to ask what impact all this stuff will have on our daily lives Who will look after it and how In the Bubble is about a world based less on stuff and more on people Thackara describes a transformation that is taking place now not in a remote science fiction future it's not about as he puts it the schlock of the new but about radical innovation already emerging in daily life We are regaining respect for what people can do that technology can't In the Bubble describes services designed to help people carry out daily activities in new ways Many of these services involve technology ranging from body implants to wide bodied jets But objects and systems play a supporting role in a people centered world The design focus is on services not things And new principles above all lightness inform the way these services are designed and used At the heart of In the Bubble is a belief informed by a wealth of real world examples that ethics and responsibility can inform design decisions without impeding social and technical innovation
