Powers Plumes And Piglets Phenomena Of Melanesian Religion Special Studies In Religions:

Powers, Plumes, and Piglets Norman C. Habel, 1979 Religions of Melanesia Garry Trompf, 2006-09-30 Melanesia boasts over one quarter of the world's distinct religions and presents the most complex religious panorama on earth. The region is famous for its unusual new religious movements that have adapted traditional beliefs to modernity in surprising ways. As the first bibliographical survey to comprehensively cover the entire region, Religions of Melanesia is an invaluable research aid for anyone interested in this growing field. Trompf's work is a complete listing of scholarly publications and provides readable and concise descriptions that will clearly guide the researcher toward the most relevant sources. This survey covers 2188 entries organized topically and regionally. Trompf covers such subjects as traditional and modern belief systems and the emergent indigenous Christianity that has taken root. Regional coverage includes Irian Jaya, Papua New Guinea, Solomon Islands, Vanuatu, New Caledonia, and Fiji. New Approaches to the Study of Religion: Regional, critical, and historical approaches Peter Antes, Armin W. Geertz, Randi Ruth Warne, 2004 Internationally recognized scholars from many parts of the world provide a critical survey of recent developments and achievements in the global field of religious studies. The work follows in the footsteps of two former publications: Classical Approaches to the Study of Religion edited by Jacques Waardenburg 1973 and Contemporary Approaches to the Study of Religion edited by Frank Whaling 1984. 85 New Approaches to the Study of Religion completes the survey of the comparative study of religion in the twentieth century by focussing on the past two decades. Many of the chapters, however, are also pathbreaking and point the way to future approaches. Regional, Critical, and Historical Approaches Peter Antes, Armin W. Geertz, Randi R. Warne, 2008-12-19 Internationally recognized scholars from many parts of the world provide a critical survey of recent developments and achievements in the global field of religious studies. The work follows in the footsteps of two former publications: Classical Approaches to the Study of Religion edited by Jacques Waardenburg 1973 and Contemporary Approaches to the Study of Religion edited by Frank Whaling 1984. 85 New Approaches to the Study of Religion completes the survey of the comparative study of religion in the twentieth century by focussing on the past two decades. Many of the chapters, however, are also pathbreaking and point the way to future approaches. An Introduction to Maori Religion James Irwin, 1984 At the beginning of his work c. 1941 Jim Irwin had as his guides into the kawa protocol of the Maori people a number of Maori elders who were born shortly after the 1860s. One was 104 years old in 1950. Another had been an adopted son of the great Te Kooti. These elderly Maori people Jim was honoured to call his koroua and kuia equivalent to grandparents. They were for him a source of information not always open to Europeans. In this work Jim Irwin has used this source though always careful not to reveal any privileged information. Interpreting Aboriginal Religion Tony Swain, 1985 Examines the reactions, attitudes, and theoretical constructions of European explorers, missionaries, and writers including Howitt, Spencer, and Gillen. Lang, Frazer, Durkheim, Radcliffe-Brown, Warner, Stanner, and Elkin. Islam and Cultural Change in Papua New Guinea Scott

Flower, 2016-08-12 Scholars of religion and policy makers may be surprised at the changes occurring on the second largest island of the world that straddles one of the most Christianised and least Christianised areas of the world This book provides an accurate and deeper understanding of the nature of Islam in Papua New Guinea and determines the causes and processes of recent growth in the country's Muslim population Combining ethnographic sociological and historical approaches to understanding Islam's growth in Papua New Guinea the book uses extensive fieldwork interviews and archival records to look at the establishment institutionalization and growth of Islam in a country that is predominantly Christian It analyses the causes and processes of conversion and presents a new analytical approach that could be used as a basis for analysing Islamic conversions in other parts of the world Presenting an interdisciplinary approach to the study of Islamic conversion thorough the examination of the causes and process of Islamic conversion in Papua New Guinea the book is of interest to students and scholars of Asian Religion Islamic Studies and Cultural Studies New Mana Matt Tomlinson, Ty P. K?wika Tengan, 2016-04-13 Mana a term denoting spiritual power is found in many Pacific Islands languages In recent decades the term has been taken up in New Age movements and online fantasy gaming In this book 16 contributors examine mana through ethnographic linguistic and historical lenses to understand its transformations in past and present The authors consider a range of contexts including Indigenous sovereignty movements Christian missions and Bible translations the commodification of cultural heritage and the dynamics of diaspora Their investigations move across diverse island groups Papua New Guinea Solomon Islands Vanuatu Fiji Tonga Samoa Hawai i and French Polynesia and into Australia North America and even cyberspace A key insight that the volume develops is that mana can be analysed most productively by paying close attention to its ethical and aesthetic dimensions Since the late nineteenth century mana has been an object of intense scholarly interest Writers in many fields including anthropology linguistics history religion philosophy and missiology have long debated how the term should best be understood The authors in this volume review mana's complex intellectual history but also describe the remarkable transformations going on in the present day as scholars activists church leaders artists and entrepreneurs take up mana in new ways Social Discord and Bodily Disorders Verena Keck, 2005 This monograph which is based on two years of field research carried out in collaboration with medical doctors explores Yupno conceptions of the link between personal illness and disturbed social relations Using the sickness and treatment of a small child as a central narrative device Keck shows how the Yupno chart the onset and course of sickness in relation to imbalances in bodily humours caused by disturbed burdened social relations She also compares Yupno ways of diagnosing and treating illness with those of biomedicine in particular as these were in evidence in the treatment of the sick child in order to underscore their specificity and to show how they link to local conceptions of personhood emotions and social equilibrium This book will be of interest for all scholars working in the field of medical anthropology and for a general readership interested in Melanesia and the Pacific This book is part of the Ethnographic Studies in Medical Anthropology

Series edited by Pamela J Stewart and Andrew Strathern Department of Anthropology University of Pittsburgh One of the great strengths of this work is the attention given to Yupno notions and concepts presented in the vernacular and with the aid of a Yupno assistant given an English gloss The translations capture a broad semantic range and are used with sensitivity Scrupulous attention to the meanings attributed to body parts emotions and the concept of person are particularly illuminating The Australian Journal of Anthropology A stellar accomplishment and very important to the literature not just on Papua New Guinea but in medical ethnography in general The Contemporary Pacific This book will be of interest for scholars working in the area of religion and healing and for those concerned with Melanesia and the Pacific Moreover it is an important contribution to ethnomedicine that will be most appreciated by those familiar with the anthropological discourse on social relations and kinship Religious Studies Review March 2009

Traditional Ritual as Christian Worship

Burrows, William R., Shaw, R. Daniel, 2018-03-27 A necessary task of missionaries in recent decades has been to help local Christians inculturate or contextualize their faith although the criteria for doing so often came from outside the context in which new believers developed their understanding of Christianity Highlighting the voices of non Western scholars this work recognizes the importance of ritual and ceremony in the life of communities that seek to worship God in ways that reflect culturally appropriate responses to Scripture The contributors some of missiology s leading lights discuss rituals beliefs and practices of diverse peoples supporting the conclusion that orthodox Christianity is hybrid Christianity

Sung Tales from the Papua New Guinea Highlands

Alan Rumsey, Don Niles, 2011-08-01 The genres of sung tales that are the subject of this volume are one of the most striking aspects of the cultural scene in the Papua New Guinea Highlands Composed and performed by specialist bards they are a highly valued art form From a comparative viewpoint they are remarkable both for their scale and complexity and for the range of variation that is found among regional genres and individual styles Though their existence has previously been noted by researchers working in the Highlands and some recordings made of them most of these genres have not been studied in detail until quite recently mainly because of the challenging range of disciplinary expertise that is required in anthropology linguistics and ethnomusicology This volume presents a set of interrelated studies by researchers in all of those fields and by a Papua New Guinea Highlander who has assisted with the research based on his lifelong familiarity with one of the regional genres The studies presented here all of them previously unpublished and written especially for this volume are of groundbreaking significance not only for specialists in Melanesia or the Pacific but also for readers with a more general interest in comparative poetics mythology musicology or verbal art

Mararoko

Mary N. MacDonald, 1991 Mararoko describes the traditional and changing life of the South Kewa people of Papua New Guinea Through discussion of story telling ritual performance and the power of pigs the author suggests that an idiom of exchange integrates the various domains of Kewa cultural experience and provides a means of change The work is accompanied by a collection of stories historical accounts and songs

Traditional Currencies and Trade Systems of Oceania Colin Barron,1988 Pathways to Heaven Holger

Jebens,2006-09-01 How does global Christianity relate to processes of globalisation and modernization and what form does it take in different local settings These questions have lately proved to be of increasing interest to many scholars in the social sciences and humanities This study examines the tensions antagonisms and outright confrontations that can occur within local Christian communities upon the arrival of global versions of fundamentalism and it does so through a rich and in depth ethnographic study of a single case that of Pairundu a small and remote Papua New Guinean village whose population accepted Catholicism after first being contacted in the late 1950s and subsequently participated in a charismatic movement before more and more members of the younger generation started to separate themselves from their respective catholic families and to convert to one of the most radical and fastest growing religious groups not only in contemporary Papua New Guinea but world wide the Seventh Day Adventist Church This case study of local Christianity as a lived religion contributes to an understanding of the social and cultural dynamics that increasingly incite and shape religious conflicts on a global scale

Making Magic Randall Styers,2004 Randall Styers seeks to account for the vitality of scholarly discourse purporting to define and explain magic despite its failure to do just that He argues that it can best be explained in light of the European and Euro American drive to establish and secure their own identity as normative Religion and Multiculturalism in Australia Norman C.
