A Practical Treatise of Building Societies and Average Investment Arthur Scratchley, 1885 Practical Banking and Building Society Law Anu Arora, 1997 With the extension of activities by banks and building societies it is now difficult to demarcate between them The differences that do still exist are largely due to the historical development of building societies and the purposes for which they were established Many of the restrictions imposed on building societies have now been removed but many prefer the freedom afforded to banks and have sought to register themselves under the Banking Act 1987 This book examines the law relating to banks and building societies highlighting the differences in the regulation process and activities of the two institutions It takes a close look at the extent to which they are both governed by the same systems of law particularly in respect of banker and customer relationships The Legal and Regulatory Aspects of Islamic Banking Abdul Karim Aldohni, 2012-05-23 During the last ten years the Islamic banking sector has grown rapidly at an international level as well as in individual jurisdictions including the UK Islamic finance differs quite substantially from conventional banking using very different mechanisms and operating according to a different theory as it is based on Islamic law Yet at the same time it is always subject to the law of the particular financial market in which it operates This book takes a much needed and comprehensive look at the legal and regulatory aspects which affect Islamic finance law and examines the current UK and international banking regulatory frameworks which impact on this sector The book examines the historical genesis of Islamic banking looking at how it has developed in Muslim countries before going on to consider the development of Islamic banking in the UK and the legal position of Islamic banks within English law The book explores company contract and some elements of tax law and traces the impact it has had on the development of Islamic banking in the UK before going on to argue that the current legal and regulatory framework which affects the Islamic banking sector has on certain occasions had an unintended adverse impact on Islamic banking in the UK The book also provides an overview of the Malaysian experience in relation to some of the main legal and regulatory challenges in the context of Islamic banking and finance

Banking Supervision & Systemic Bank Restructuring Kenneth Kaoma Mwenda, 2000-11-22 First published in 2001 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company English Practical Banking Thomas Bouchier Moxon, 1904 Legal Aspects of Financial Services Regulation and the Concept of a Unified Regulator Kenneth Kaoma Mwenda, 2006-01-01 That different types of financial services and products continue to spring up in the financial sector of many countries is indicative of the changing landscape of the financial services industry globally. Equally important as indicators of the evolving trajectory of financial services regulation are increases in the number of countries where universal banking is practiced and in numbers of parent and subsidiary companies providing different types of financial services and products. This book is written against that background. A central thesis pursued in the book is that until there is a longer track record of experience with unified regulators it is difficult to come to firm conclusions about the restructuring process of regulators and the optimal internal structure of such agencies. In addition, the book examines the concept of an independent regulator showing how this concept as a corollary to the concept of a unified regulator could strengthen the regulatory and institutional framework for financial services supervision if accountability were to be part of such a framework.
