

THE BRADFORD IMPROVEMENT BILL, 1873.

FIRST ARTICLE.

Most of our readers are aware that the Corporation of Bradford intend to apply to Parliament during the ensuing session for further powers, but we believe that very little is really known of the scope and objects of the bill, or the improvements sought to be effected under it, should it become law. It will, we have no doubt, therefore be interesting to state plainly and fully in general terms what the bill is ; in short, to translate it into common phraseology. First of all, then, comes the preamble, which states the various grounds on which the application rests. Among these it is stated that the Corporation have been requested to supply water to other places than those which they have at present power to supply—that the Corporation are desirous to effect various necessary street and other improvements, to enlarge the boundaries of the borough, so as to include the township of Belton, and to compel Fire Insurance Companies to contribute towards the maintenance of the Corporation fire brigade. All these reasons, and a great many others of less interest, if not of less importance, wind up with the usual request—"May it therefore please your Majesty"—that certain provisions which follow shall be enacted, and take the form of law. The first clause merely refers to the title of the Act ; the second proposes to incorporate with this Act all waterworks, improvement and other Acts under which the borough is governed. This amalgamation will save a great deal of trouble in future legal proceedings, inasmuch as instead of nearly a dozen different Acts, there will only be this one "Bradford Improvement Act 1873." Clause 3 is merely an interpretation of the terms used in the bill.
