Johnson, Alessandro Stavru, 2019-11-05 Physiognomy and ekphrasis are two of the most important modes of description in antiquity and represent the necessary precursors of scientific description The primary way of divining the characteristics and fate of an individual whether inborn or acquired was to observe the patient's external characteristics and behaviour This volume focuses initially on two types of descriptive literature in Mesopotamia physiognomic omens and what we might call ekphrastic description These modalities are traced through ancient India Ugaritic and the Hebrew Bible before arriving at the physiognomic features of famous historical figures such as Themistocles Socrates or Augustus in the Graeco Roman world where physiognomic discussions become intertwined with typological analyses of human characters The Arabic compendial culture absorbed and remade these different physiognomic and ekphrastic traditions incorporating both Mesopotamian links between physiognomy and medicine and the interest in characterological types that had emerged in the Hellenistic period This volume offers the first wide ranging picture of these modalities of description in antiquity The Tomb of the Priests of Amun Rogério Sousa, Anne Haslund Hansen, 2022-10-10 Previously unpublished the Danish Lot of antiquities from the Tomb of the Priests of Amun Bab el Gasus is thoroughly examined in this book The in depth analysis of the objects is followed by an assessment of how these objects were crafted designed used and recycled in the Theban necropolis a procedure that not only reveals to be instrumental in the dating of the objects as it sheds light into the extraordinary dynamics of funerary workshops during the 21st Dynasty The volume also examines the arrival of the Lot and its reception in Denmark Military Information on Eastern Europe United States. Tourism and Tibetan Culture in Transition Ashild Kolas,2007-09-12 This book explores the relationship between tourism culture and ethnic identity in Tibet in focusing in particular on Shangrila a Tibetan region in Southwest China to show how local Tibetan culture is reconstructed as a marketable commodity for tourists It analyses the socio economic effects of Shangrila tourism in Tibet investigating who benefits economically whilst also considering its political implications and the ways in which tourism might be linked to the negotiation and reassertion of ethnic identity It goes on to examine the spatial re imagining provoked by the development of tourism and asks whether a tourist destination inevitably becomes a pseudo community for the visited Can a fictitious name invented for the sake of tourists still provide the natives of a place with a sense of identity This book argues that conceptions of place are closely linked to notions of social identity and in the case of Shangrila particularly to ethnic identity Viewing the spatial as socially constructed and place making as vital to social organisation this is a study of how place is constructed and contested It describes how local villagers and monastic elites have negotiated the area s religious geography how agents of the Communist state have redefined it as a minority area and how tourism developers are now marketing the region as Shangrila for tourist consumption It outlines the different place making strategies utilised by the various social actors including local villagers to create the communities in which they live monastic elites to invent a Buddhist Tibetan realm of religious geography agents of the People s Republic of China to define the area as part of the communist state and tourism developers to market the region as Shangrila for tourist consumption Overall this book is an insightful account of the complex links between tourism culture and Tibetanethnic identity in Tibet and will be of interest to a wide range of disciplines including social anthropology sociology human geography tourism and development studies
