Weymouth, PhD, 2013-09 The terminal diagnosis is given the knock on the door comes and someone you love is dying or has just died Death happens every day yet as one hospital chaplain said Most of the time we just live life as if it isn't an issue until it's in our face It's not as if death is a secret It's on the news and in the newspaper daily but we don't talk about it very much almost pretending as if it won't happen to us or our loved ones But by not talking and not preparing we make dying and death scarier and more difficult than it needs to be That is one of the messages that the storytellers in What Obituaries Don't Tell You Conversations about Life and Death want to impart Talk and prepare is a theme repeated over and over In these stories and interviews you are sure to find people and narratives that are meaningful to you helping you heal from loss assuring you that you are not alone in your experiences and allowing you to find your voice and speak your truth in your own conversations about life and death You may also be surprised Did you know that there is a strong correlation between whether a death is deemed good or bad easy or difficult and the relationships in a person's life including one's relationship to religious or spiritual beliefs. Whether you are a person who has lost a loved one, a person thinking about your own death and wanting to prepare for it, or a student or professional preparing to or already working with issues of death in any way, you may find that the information that helps you the most is not imparted to you in obituaries but in the stories behind the scenes.

Robert Love's Warnings Cornelia H. Dayton, Sharon V. Salinger, 2014-03-04. In colonial America the system of warning out was distinctive to New England, a way for a community to regulate those to whom it would extend welfare. Robert Love's Warnings animates this nearly forgotten aspect of colonial life, richly detailing the moral and legal basis of the practice and the religious and humanistic vision of those who enforced it. Historians Cornelia H. Dayton and Sharon V. Salinger follow one otherwise obscure town clerk, Robert Love, as he walked through Boston's streets to tell sojourners in His Majesty's Name that they were warned to depart the town in fourteen days. This declaration meant not that newcomers literally had to leave but that they could not claim legal settlement or rely on town poor relief. Warned youths and adults could reside, work, marry or buy a house in the city. If they became needy, their relief was paid for by the province treasurer. Warning thus functioned as a registration system encouraging the flow of labor and protecting town coffers. Between 1765 and 1774 Robert Love warned four thousand itinerants including youthful migrant workers, demobilized British soldiers, recently exiled Acadians and women following the redcoats who occupied Boston in 1768. Appointed warner at age sixty-eight, owing to his unusual capacity for remembering faces Love kept meticulous records of the sojourners he spoke to including where they lodged and whether they were lame ragged drunk impudent homeless or begging Through these documents Dayton and Salinger reconstruct the biographies of travelers exploring why so many people were on the move throughout the British Atlantic and why they came to Boston With a fresh interpretation of the role that warning played in Boston s civic structure and street life Robert Love s Warnings reveals the complex legal social and political landscape of New England in the decade before the Revolution
