Lucifer Unemployed:

Lucifer Unemployed Aleksander Wat, 1990 In these nine stories the Polish writer Aleksander Wat consistently turns history on its ear in comic reversals reverberating with futurist rhythms and the gently mocking humor of despair Wat inverts the conventions of religion politics and culture to fantastic effect illuminating the anarchic conditions of existence in interwar Europe The title story finds a superbly ironic Lucifer wandering the Europe of the late 1920s in search of a mission what impact can a devil have in a godless time What is his sorcery in a society far more diabolical than the devil himself Too idealistic for a world full of modern cruelties the unemployable Lucifer finally finds the only means of guaranteed immortality In The Eternally Wandering Jew steady Jewish conversion to Christianity results in Nathan the Talmudist reigning as Pope Urban IX The hilarious satire on power Kings in Exile unfolds with the dethroned monarchs of Europe meeting to found their own republic in an uninhabited island in the Indian Ocean

Lucifer Unemployed Alexander Wat, 1989-06-01 How Does It Hurt? Stephanie de Montalk, 2015-07-01 In How Does It Hurt acclaimed poet and biographer Stephanie de Montalk tells the story of the chronic pain that has invaded her life for more than 10 years She considers how her early experiences have been cast into fresh relief by what she has endured then goes back in time to investigate the lives and works of three writers who also lived with and wrote about pain the consolator English social theorist Harriet Martineau 1802 1876 the vendor of happiness French novelist Alphonse Daudet 1840 1897 and the imago Polish poet Aleksander Wat 1900 1967 Through these explorations de Montalk confronts the paradox of writing about suffering where we can turn when the pain is beyond words A unique blend of memoir imaginative biography and poetry How Does It Hurt is a groundbreaking contribution to the understanding of chronic pain and a spellbinding literary achievement

Aleksander Wat Tomas Venclova, 1996-01-01 Aleksander Wat was in many ways the archetypal Central European intellectual of the mid twentieth century a man who experienced and influenced all the tumultuous political and artistic movements of his time Yet little has been published about him even in his native Poland This book is the first account of Wat's turbulent life accompanied by a thorough analysis of his extraordinary poems and prose works in their diverse periods and genres Tomas Venclova himself a poet of international renown has uncovered numerous new biographical details made the surprising discovery of an unfinished novel Wat began fifty years ago and woven together the themes of Wat's life and work At different times a futurist surrealist and Communist fellow traveler Wat turned away from communism after his imprisonment by the Soviet secret police and became a vociferous spokesman for democracy Venclova tells Wat's story from his Polish Jewish upbringing in the early 1900s his participation in the literary avant garde in the 1920s and his work as editor of an influential Communist journal before World War II through his emigration to the West in 1959 and his death in 1967 Venclova argues convincingly that Wat's literary achievement promoted the rejuvenation of Polish and East European letters after the Stalinist era His broad intellectual influence on many including Czeslaw Milosz helped to consolidate the moral and political opposition to totalitarian ideology that has profoundly changed political realities in the late twentieth century Visions of Avant-Garde

Film Kamila Kuc, 2016-12-12 Warsaw and London based filmmakers Franciszka and Stefan Themerson are often recognized internationally as pioneers of the 1930s Polish avant garde Yet from the turn of the century to the end of the 1920s Poland's literary and art scenes were also producing a rich array of criticism and early experiments with the moving image that set the stage for later developments in the avant garde In this comprehensive and accessible study Kamila Kuc draws on myriad undiscovered archival sources to tell the history of early Polish avant garde movements Symbolism Expressionism Futurism and Constructivism and to reveal their impact on later practices in art cinema My Century Aleksander Wat, 2013-01-30

In My Century the great Polish poet Aleksander Wat provides a spellbinding account of life in Eastern Europe in the midst of the terrible twentieth century Based on interviews with Nobel Prize winner Czeslaw Milosz My Century describes the artistic sexual and political experimentation in which Wat was a major participant that followed the end of World War I an explosion of talent and ideas which he argues in some ways helped to open the door to the destruction that the Nazis and Bolsheviks soon visited upon the world But Wat's book is at heart a story of spiritual struggle and conversion He tells of his separation during World War II from his wife and young son of his confinement in the Soviet prison system of the night when the sound of far off laughter brought on a vision of the devil in history It was then Wat writes that I began to be a believer

Contemporary Slavic horror across media Agnieszka Jezyk, 2025-06-17 In the Western cultural production that puts individual or collective fear at its center East Central Europe has been portrayed as an othered space of horror lawless frightening zones where anything can happen Incorporating articles on literature film visual arts video games music videos and music festivals Contemporary Slavic horror across media Cursed zones is a pioneering anthology of academic essays devoted to Slavic horror fiction The book focuses on works from the mid 20th century through the present particularly the post Soviet period Assessing current trends in Czech Polish Russian Slovak Ukrainian and East Central European horror media the book looks at similarities and idiosyncrasies of the genre in its Slavic variant With this anthology we hope to tame the Easterner Other and start exorcising monstrous East Central Europe New Dangerous Liaisons Luisa Passerini, Liliana Ellena, Alexander C.T. Geppert, 2010-10-01 In Europe love has been given a prominent place in European self representations from the Enlightenment onwards The category of love stemming from private and personal spheres was given a public function and used to distinguish European civilisation from others Contributors to this volume trace historical links and analyse specific connections between the two discourses on love and Europe over the course of the twentieth century exploring the distinctions made between the public and private the political and personal In doing so this volume develops an innovative historiography that includes such resources as autobiographies love letters and cinematic representations and takes issue with the exclusivity of Eurocentrism Its contributors put forth hypotheses about the historical pre eminence of emotions and consider this history as a basis for a non Eurocentric understanding of new possible European identities

God at the Improv Anthony J. Petrotta, 2020-12-17 Asking if there is humor in any religious text might seem blasphemous to many readers Religious texts are there to instruct us not entertain us Religious texts are serious works not frivolous However if part of being human entails having a sense of humor then it would be more surprising indeed for Scripture not to have humor Humor instructs us as much as it entertains us God at the Improv seeks to show that being religious and being humorous are not opposites but actually work in tandem to enhance and enliven our faith and practice Tradition, Literature and Politics in East-Central Europe Carl Tighe, 2020-12-30 Milan Kundera warned that in the states of East Central Europe attitudes to the west and the idea of Europe were complex and could even be hostile But few could have imagined how the collapse of communism and membership of the EU would confront these countries with a life that was suddenly and disconcertingly modern and which challenged sustaining traditions in literature culture politics and established views on identity Since the countries of East Central Europe joined the European Union in 2004 the politicians and oppositionists of the centre left who once led the charge against communism have often been forced to give way to right wing authoritarian populist governments These governments while keen to accept EU finance have been determined to present themselves as protecting their traditional ethno national inheritance resisting foreign interference stemming the gay invasion halting Islamic replacement and reversing women s rights They have blamed Communists liberals foreigners Jews and Gypsies revised abortion laws tampered with their constitutions to control the Justice system and taken over the media to an astonishing degree By 2019 amid calls for the suspension of their voting rights both Poland and Hungary had been taken to the European Court of Justice and the European Parliament and had begun to explore ways to put conditions on future EU funding This book focuses on the interface between tradition literature and politics in east central Europe focusing mainly on Poland but also Hungary and the Czech Republic It explores literary tradition and the role of writers to ask why these left liberals who were once ubiquitous in the struggles with communism are now marginalised often reviled and almost entirely absent from political debate It asks in what ways the advent of capitalism normalised literature and what the consequences might be It asks whether the rise of chauvinism is normal in this part of the world and whether the literary traditions that helped sustain independent political thought through the communist years now instead of supporting literature feed nationalist opinion and negative attitudes to the idea of Europe
