We Alone David Western, 2020-11-24 A thoughtful exploration of how humans have endangered the Earth but can pull it back from the brink as told by a renowned conservationist This personal and thoughtful book by renowned Kenya conservationist David Western traces our global conquest from Maasai herders battling droughts in Africa to the technological frontiers of California Western draws on a half century of research in the savannas and his own life's journey to argue that conservation is not a modern invention. The success of all societies past and present lies in conservation practices breaking biological barriers and learning to live in large cooperative groups able to sustain a healthy environment. Our ecological emancipation from nature enabled us to expand our horizons from conserving food and water for survival to saving whales, elephants and our cultural heritage. In the Anthropocene, our scientific knowledge and modern sensibilities offer hope for combating global warming and creating a planet able to sustain the wealth of life but only if we use our unique cultural capacity of cooperation to plan our future.

Empire of Borders Todd Miller, 2019-08-06

The United States is outsourcing its border patrol abroad and essentially expanding its borders in the process. The twenty-first century has witnessed the rapid hardening of international borders. Security surveillance and militarization are widening the chasm between those who travel where they please and those whose movements are restricted. But that is only part of the story. As journalist Todd Miller reveals in Empire of Borders, the nature of US borders has changed. These boundaries have effectively expanded thousands of miles outside of US territory to encircle not simply American land but Washington's interests. Resources, training and agents from the United States infiltrate the Caribbean and Central America; they reach across the Canadian border and they go even farther afield enforcing the division between Global South and North. The highly publicized focus on a wall between the United States and Mexico misses the bigger picture of strengthening border enforcement around the world. Empire of Borders is a tremendous work of narrative investigative journalism that traces the rise of this border regime. It delves into the practices of extreme vetting which raise the possibility of ideological tests and cyber policing for migrants and visitors; a level of scrutiny that threatens fundamental freedoms and allows once again for America's security concerns to infringe upon the sovereign rights of other nations. In Syria, Guatemala, Kenya, Palestine, Mexico, the Philippines and elsewhere, Miller finds that borders aren't making the world safe; they are the frontline in a global war against the poor.

Conflicts over Natural Resources in the Global South Maarten Bavinck, Lorenzo Pellegrini, Erik Mostert, 2014-01-15

Inhabitants of poor rural areas in the Global South heavily depend on natural resources in their immediate vicinity. Conflicts over and exploitation of these resources, whether it is water, fish, wood, fuel, minerals or land, severely affect their livelihoods. The contributors to this volume leave behind the polarised debate previously surrounded by these issues.

Indigenouness in Africa Felix Mukwiza Ndahinda, 2011-04-27

With a Foreword by Prof Asbjørn Eide, a former Chairman of the UN Working Group on Indigenous Populations, Chairman of the UN Working Group on Minorities, President of the Advisory Committee on National Minorities of the Council of Europe. Following the internationalization of the indigenous rights movement, a growing number of African hunter-gatherers, pastoralists and other communities have channelled their claims for special legal protection through the global indigenous rights movement. Their claims as the indigenous peoples of Africa are backed by many international actors such as indigenous rights activists donors and some academia However indigenous identification is contested by many African governments some members of non claimant communities and a number of anthropologists who have extensively interacted with claimant indigenous groups This book explores the sources as well as the legal and political implications of indigenous identification in Africa By highlighting the quasi inexistence of systematic and discursive rather than activist studies on the subject matter the analysis questions the appropriateness of this framework in efforts aimed at empowering claimant communities in inherently multiethnic African countries The book navigates between various disciplines in trying to better capture the phenomenon of indigenous rights advocacy in Africa The book is valuable reading for academics in law and all other social sciences such as anthropology sociology history political science as well as for economists It is also a useful tool for policy makers legal practitioners indigenous rights activists and a wide range of NGOs Dr Felix Mukwiza Ndahinda is Associate Professor at the International Victimology Institute Tilburg INTERVICT Tilburg University The Netherlands
