Nagasubramani, Adult learners have more options for enrolling in postsecondary education than ever before and they are able to use their learning style preference in deciding which program best meets their needs For some of these students those programs are fully online and for others there is minimal use of technology As technology grows and become more integrated into individual lives the unique learning styles and preferences of adults need to learn to be incorporated into instructional design Drawing on a regional sample of US colleges 545 adult learners in a graduate programs were surveyed about how to effectively build community in their online classes Results indicated some agreement with these instructional tools Mature adult learners however were found to have stronger agreement with strategies that included work outside of the formal online class These results suggest perhaps a greater comfort for adults in working in spaces where there is less likelihood of being judged or graded and that they might value relational work with other students in different ways than younger adults

What Did I Just Say!?! Denis Donovan, M.D., Deborah McIntyre, R.N., 2000-10 An invaluable book that does for parents and their young children what You Just Don't Understand did for men and women Did you know that when you say How many times have I told you not to your toddler thinks you are actually changing the subject rather than reiterating a question Based on years of clinical experience and original child development research What Did I Just Say shows how conventional communication styles actually prevent parents from saying what they mean and cause children to hear something entirely different than what was intended The authors demonstrate how a simple understanding of the logic of language and of childhood thinking can dramatically improve parent child communication Among the subjects covered are understanding the complex experiential world of young children putting structure rules and boundaries into children's lives while still fostering individuality encouraging healthy emotional responsiveness and interpersonal sensitivity while decreasing anger and aggression focusing a child's attention and foiling behaviors such as tuning out and forgetting By helping parents understand the very different linguistic and experiential world of children What Did I Just Say offers a foundation for parent child communication that will last a lifetime The International Review, 1880
