back volumes are still available in print      Ogoni Women's Activism Domale Dube, 2025-04-22 In 1995 Nigeria's dictatorial government executed nine Ogoni leaders fighting for civil rights and against Shell Oil's depredations of Ogoni land. Domale Dube draws on interviews and participant observation to tell the long ignored story of how women carved out a role in the Ogoni pursuit of justice. Dube's account examines and documents the issues that drew women into the movement from concerns for themselves and their communities to grander visions for the Ogoni. As she shows these issues not only influenced organizing in Nigeria but also the diaspora in general and the United States in particular, Ogoni women relied upon nonviolent protest to realize their aims. Dube looks at their campaigns and how their actions reflected their concerns, values, interests, and priorities. The result is a rare account of Black women and transnational organizing for women's climate and environmental justice that merges a history of their involvement with an in-depth analysis of the racial, gender, and ethnic dimensions of the Ogoni Struggle.

Being and Becoming Chinyere Ukpokolo, 2016-02-25 This book illuminates the complex and constantly shifting social and cultural dynamics that shape people's identity. Specifically, the volume focuses on the intersections of gender with culture and identity and, at different historical epochs, on the way men and women define themselves and are defined by diverse peoples and cultures across time and space in sub-Saharan Africa. The discussions presented in this anthology primarily focus on being as a state or condition defined by sex identity and how this identity shifts and hence becoming assuming diverse meanings in disparate societies, contexts, and time. The discourse therefore moves from how the perception of the self in cultural and historical contexts has informed actions and, at some other times, shaped interpretations given to historical facts to how changing economic realities also shape the definitions and constructions of social and relational issues in sub-Saharan Africa. The historical trajectories of Islamic religion, colonialism, and Christian missionary activities in sub-Saharan Africa have shaped the worlds of the peoples of the region and impacted on gender relations.

Male Daughters, Female Husbands Professor Ifi Amadiume, 2015-03-12 In 1987, more than a decade before the dawn of queer theory, Ifi Amadiume wrote Male Daughters, Female Husbands to critical acclaim. This compelling and highly original book frees the subject position of husband from its affiliation with men and goes on to do the same for other masculine attributes, dislocating sex, gender, and sexual orientation. Boldly arguing that the notion of gender as constructed in Western feminist discourse did not exist in Africa before the colonial imposition of a dichotomous understanding of sexual difference, Male Daughters, Female Husbands examines the structures in African society that enabled people to achieve power, showing that roles were not rigidly masculinized nor feminized. At a time when gender and queer theory are viewed by some as being stuck in an identity politics rut, this outstanding study not only warns against the danger of projecting a very specific Western notion of difference onto other cultures but calls us to question the very concept of gender itself.
