History of Aging in Qing China Clara Wing-chung Ho,2025-05-24 This book examines the history of aging and old age during the Qing dynasty a pivotal period marked by rapid population growth that resulted in the largest elderly population in imperial China Drawing on previously overlooked first person accounts from the extensive collections authored by Qing men and women it offers an overview of the self curated collective aging journeys of several hundreds of elders By centering the voices of individuals reflecting on their aging experiences this book delves into the personal narratives from both genders rediscovering their aging journeys revealing their subjectively constructed emotional landscapes and giving a voice to the elderly individuals of the past The chapters closely analyze how the elderly in Qing China articulated their aging process channeling their joys challenges and frustrations in later life History is not the monopoly of a single gender class race or age group without representations of the elderly history remains incomplete This book seeks to restore the elderly to the historical narrative and invites further discussion on Chinese historical gerontology as an emerging subfield In addition to appealing to general readers interested in contemporary demographic issues from a historical perspective this book will engage students and researchers of history historical gerontology aging studies gender studies cultural studies sociology psychology and Asian studies Chinese Senior Migrants and the Globalization of Retirement Nicole DeJong

Newendorp,2020-09-08 The 21st century has seen growing numbers of seniors turning to migration in response to newfound challenges to traditional forms of retirement and old age support such as increased longevity demographically aging populations and global neoliberal trends reducing state welfare Chinese born migrants to the U S serve as an exemplary case of this trend with 30 percent of all migrants since 1990 being at least 60 years old This book tells their story arguing that they demonstrate the significance of age as a mediating factor that is fundamentally important for considering how migration is experienced The subjects of this study are situated at the crossroads of Chinese immigrant and Chinese American experiences embodying many of the ambiguities and paradoxes that complicate common understandings of each group These are older individuals who have waited their whole lives to migrate to the U S to rejoin family but often experience unanticipated family conflict when they arrive They are retirees living at the social and economic margins of American society who nonetheless find significant opportunities to achieve meaningful retired lifestyles They are members of a diaspora spanning vast regional and ideological differences yet their wellbeing hinges on everyday interactions with others in this diverse community Their stories highlight the many possibilities for mutual engagement that connect Chinese and

Embedded Generations Liu Jieyu, 2025-11-25 An interconnected nuanced and nonlinear view of Chinese family life since 1949 With Embedded Generations Liu Jieyu offers a comprehensive examination of Chinese family life since the Chinese Communist Revolution of 1949 Grounding her account in the analysis of 260 life history narratives and rich ethnographic data Liu traces the changing ways families have navigated such experiential milestones as childhood courtship and marriage sex and intimacy and aging over the past seven decades Using generation the urban rural divide and gender as her analytical lenses she provides an alternative narrative of Chinese family life countering the dominant Eurocentric accounts of modernization and family change Liu proposes the concept of embedded generations to capture the ongoing relational and socioeconomic shaping of family life taking account of variation within and across generations and of both intergenerational transmission and individual adaptations to changing conditions of everyday life Resisting the notion that social and family changes are linear historical progressions Liu reveals a family portrait of complex change continuity and diversity Rather than a straightforward transition from the traditional to the modern and postmodern she argues changes in Chinese family life have entailed the adaptation and re-serving of traditional ideas and practices to produce a bricolage of modern and traditional elements

Transforming China's Economy In The Eighties Stephen Feuchtwang, 2019-06-04 This is the first of two volumes on the transformation of China since 1978 The second volume concentrates on the government administration of the reforms which have brought changes in economic organization it deals with the urban economy The focus of this volume is on changes in the rural economy provision for basic needs such as nutrition and China's Revolutions and Intergenerational Relations Martin Whyte, 2020-08-06 China's Revolutions and Intergenerational Relations counters the widely accepted notion that traditional family patterns are weakened by forces such as economic development and social revolutions China has experienced wrenching changes on both the economic and the political fronts yet from the evidence presented here the tradition of filial respect and support for aging parents remains alive and well Using collaborative surveys carried out in 1994 in the middle sized industrial city of Baoding and comparative data from urban Taiwan the authors examine issues shaping the relationships between adult Chinese children and their elderly parents The continued vitality of intergenerational support and filial obligations in these samples is not simply an instance of strong Confucian tradition trumping powerful forces of change Instead and somewhat paradoxically the continued strength of filial obligations can be attributed largely to the institutions of Chinese socialism forged in the era of Mao Zedong With socialist institutions now under assault in the People's Republic of China the future of intergenerational relations in the twenty first century is once again uncertain
