Kutan, Ali Mirzae, 2016-12-06 We examine the association between capital inflows and industry growth in a sample of 22 emerging market economies from 1998 to 2010 We expect more external finance dependent industries in countries that host more capital inflows to grow disproportionately faster This is indeed the case in the pre crisis period of 1998 2007 and is driven by debt rather than equity inflows We also observe a reduction in output volatility but this association is more pronounced for equity rather than debt inflows These relationships however break down during the crisis hinting at the importance of an undisrupted global financial system for emerging markets to harness the growth benefits of capital inflows In line with this observation we also document that the inflows growth nexus is stronger in countries with well functioning banks The Oxford Handbook of Theology,

Higher education is facing a perfect storm as it contends with changing demographics shrinking budgets and concerns about access and cost while underrepresented groups both in faculty ranks and students are voicing dissatisfaction with campus climate and demanding changes to structural inequities This book argues that to address the inexorable changes ahead colleges and universities need both to centralize the value of diversity and inclusion and employ a set of strategies that are enacted at all levels of their institutions It argues that individual and institutional change efforts can only be achieved by implementing diversity as a value that is embracing social change efforts as central and additive rather than episodic and required and provides the research and theoretical frameworks to support this approach as well as tools and examples of practice that accomplish change The contributors to this book identify the elements that drive successful multicultural initiatives and that strengthen the effectiveness of campus efforts to dismantle systemic oppression as well as the individual and organization skills needed to manage difference effectively Among these is developing the capacity of administrators faculty and student affairs professionals as conscious scholar practitioners to sensitively manage conflicts on campus deconstruct challenging structures and reconstruct the environment intentionally to include in respectful ways experiences of historically marginalized groups and non dominant ways of being in the world The books focus on developing capacities for multicultural competence aligns with higher education s increasing emphasis on civic engagement and institutional goals promote skills to
