Lowland Floodplain Rivers P. A. Carling, G. E. Petts, 1992

Theoretical Morphodynamics: River Meandering

Giovanni Seminara, Stefano Lanzoni, Nicoletta Tambroni, 2024-04-05 This monograph discusses the mechanics of Meandering Rivers with the help of the mathematical and modeling tools built up in the previous monograph of the same Authors monograph 1 of the present series After introducing the reader to the ubiquitous character of meandering streams we discuss the hydrodynamics of curved channels with fixed beds and banks Next we extend the analysis to account for the mobile character of the bed and show that it gives rise to the alternate sequence of riffles and pools that characterize river meanders Allowing for the erodible character of the river banks then allows to build up a rational theory of meander formation able to explain most of the features observed in nature meander growth migration skewing multiple loops cutoffs and meander belts

Geomorphic Approaches to Integrated Floodplain Management of Lowland Fluvial Systems in North America and Europe Paul F. Hudson, Hans Middelkoop, 2015-04-29 This volume provides a comprehensive perspective on geomorphic approaches to management of lowland alluvial rivers in North America and Europe Many lowland rivers have been heavily managed for flood control and navigation for decades or centuries resulting in engineered channels and embanked floodplains with substantially altered sediment loads and geomorphic processes Over the past decade floodplain management of many lowland rivers has taken on new importance because of concerns about the potential for global environmental change to alter floodplain processes necessitating revised management strategies that minimize flood risk while enhancing environmental attributes of floodplains influenced by local embankments and upstream dams Recognition of the failure of old perspectives on river management and the need to enhance environmental sustainability has stimulated a new approach to river management The manner that river restoration and integrated management are implemented however requires a case study approach that takes into account the impact of historic human impacts to the system especially engineering The river basins examined in this volume provide a representative coverage of the drainage of North America and Europe taking into account a range of climatic and physiographic provinces They include the 1 Sacramento California USA 2 San Joaquin California 3 Missouri Missouri USA 4 Red Manitoba Canada and Minnesota USA 5 Mississippi Louisiana USA 6 Kissimmee Florida USA 7 Ebro Spain 8 Rhone France 9 Rhine Netherlands 10 Danube Romania and 11 Volga Russian Federation Rivers The case studies covered in these chapters span a range of fluvial modes of adjustment including sediment channel hydrologic regime floodplains as well as ecosystem and environmental associations

Geomorphology and River Management Gary J. Brierley, Kirstie A. Fryirs, 2013-04-29 This book outlines a generic set of procedures termed the River Styles Framework which provides a set of tools for interpreting river character behavior condition and recovery potential Applications of the framework generate a coherent package of geomorphic information providing a physical template for river rehabilitation activities management and restoration of rivers is a rapidly growing topic for environmental scientists geologists and ecologists this book provides a learning tool with which to approach geomorphic applications to river management describes the essential geomorphological principles underlying river behaviour and evolution demonstrates how the River Styles Framework can turn geomorphic theory into practice to develop workable strategies for restoration and management based on real case studies and authors extensive experience applicable to river systems worldwide synthesises fluvial geomorphology ecology and management

Fluvial Sedimentology VI Norman D. Smith, John Rogers, 2009-03-16 Understanding of rivers and their sediments both as modern systems and as ancient counterparts in the geological record has progressed steadily but markedly over the past several decades with contributions by practitioners in diverse fields of geosciences and engineering This book contains 31 papers with authors from 13 countries who participated in the Sixth International Conference on Fluvial Sedimentology held in Cape Town South Africa in 1977 True to the nature of these quadrennial conferences the papers in this book discuss a broad range of fluvial subjects that include the character of bedforms and sediment transport in river channels morphological and sedimentological features of modern fluvial environments modern and ancient avulsions internal and external controls on the behaviour of river systems and the facies and architectural organization of alluvial deposits A specialist volume detailing the latest advances in fluvial sedimentology Authorship includes the leaders in the field If you are a member of the International Association of Sedimentologists for purchasing details please see <http://www.iasnet.org/publications/details.asp?code=SP28>

Analysis and Modelling of River Meandering Alessandra Crosato, 2008 This thesis examines the morphological changes of non tidal meandering rivers at the spatial scale of several meanders With this purpose a physics based mathematical model MIANDRAS has been developed for the simulation of the medium term to long term evolution of meandering rivers Application to several real rivers shows that MIANDRAS can properly simulate both equilibrium river bed topography and planimetric changes Three models of different complexity can be obtained by applying different degrees of simplification to the equations These models along with experimental tests and field data constitute the tools for several analyses At conditions of initiation of meandering it is found that river bends can migrate upstream and downstream This depends on meander wave length and width to depth ratio irrespective of whether the parameters are in the subresonant or the superresonant range

Coastal Landscapes of South Australia Robert P. Bourman, Colin V. Murray-Wallace, Nick Harvey, 2016-08-09 Geologically the South Australian coast is very young having evolved over only 1% of geological time during the past 43 million years since the separation of Australia and Antarctica It is also very dynamic with the current shoreline position having been established from only 7000 years ago The South Australian mainland coast is 3816 km long with islands providing an additional 1251 km of coast giving a total coastline of just over 5000 km South Australian coastal landforms include cliffs rocky outcrops and shore platforms mangrove woodlands mudflats estuaries extensive sandy beaches coastal dunes and coastal barrier systems as well as numerous near shore reefs and islands This book is a landmark study into the variable character of the South Australian coast and its long term evolution The Biogeochemistry of the Amazon Basin Michael E. McClain, Reynaldo Victoria, Jeffrey E.

Richey, 2001-11-08 With a complex assemblage of largely intact ecosystems that support the earth's greatest diversity of life the Amazon basin is a focal point of international scientific interest And as development and colonization schemes transform the landscape in increasing measure scientists from around the world are directing attention to questions of regional and global significance Some of these questions are What are the fluxes of greenhouse gases across the atmospheric interface of ecosystems How much carbon is stored in the biomass and soils of the basin How are elements from the land transferred to the basin's surface waters What is the sum of elements transferred from land to ocean and what is its marine fate This book of original chapters by experts in chemical and biological oceanography tropical agronomy and biology and the atmospheric sciences will address these and other important questions with the aim of synthesizing the current knowledge of biochemical processes operating within and between the various ecosystems in the Amazon basin Tools in Fluvial Geomorphology G. Mathias Kondolf, Hervé Piégay, 2016-06-13 Fluvial Geomorphology studies the biophysical processes acting in rivers and the sediment patterns and landforms resulting from them It is a discipline of synthesis with roots in geology geography and river engineering and with strong interactions with allied fields such as ecology engineering and landscape architecture This book comprehensively reviews tools used in fluvial geomorphology at a level suitable to guide the selection of research methods for a given question Presenting an integrated approach to the interdisciplinary nature of the subject it provides guidance for researchers and professionals on the tools available to answer questions on river restoration and management Thoroughly updated since the first edition in 2003 by experts in their subfields the book presents state of the art tools that have revolutionized fluvial geomorphology in recent decades such as physical and numerical modelling remote sensing and GIS new field techniques advances in dating tracking and sourcing statistical approaches as well as more traditional methods such as the systems framework stratigraphic analysis form and flow characterisation and historical analysis This book Covers five main types of geomorphological questions and their associated tools historical framework spatial framework chemical physical and biological methods analysis of processes and forms and future understanding framework Provides guidance on advantages and limitations of different tools for different applications data sources equipment and supplies needed and case studies illustrating their application in an integrated perspective It is an essential resource for researchers and professional geomorphologists hydrologists geologists engineers planners and ecologists concerned with river management conservation and restoration It is a useful supplementary textbook for upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in Geography Geology Environmental Science Civil and Environmental Engineering and interdisciplinary courses in river management and restoration
