Baudelaire in China Gloria Bien, 2012-12-14 Baudelaire's work entered China in the twentieth century amidst political and social upheavals accompanied by a literary revolution that called for classical models and modes of expression to be replaced by vernacular language and contemporary content Chinese writers welcomed their meeting with the West and openly embraced Western literature as providing models in developing their new literature Baudelaire's reception in China provides a representative study of this meeting of East and west His work which has been declared to stand between tradition and modernity also lies at the intersection between classical and modern literature in China Many of the best known and most highly regarded writers in twentieth century China were drawn to Baudelaire's work and some addressed it directly in their own writings. Bien draws upon H. R. Jauss's theory of the shifting and expanding horizons of expectation in the reading and interpretation of a literary work and upon James J. Y. Lin's notion of worlds received and created by both author and reader to show how poetic lines, images and ideas as well as Chinese critics' comments eventually weave into a rich picture of Baudelaire's reception in China.

The Routledge Handbook of Modern Chinese Literature presents a comprehensive overview of Chinese literature from the 1910s to the present day. Offering an exciting account of the century-long process of literary modernization in China, the handbook's themes include Modernization of people and writing, Realism, Romanticism, and Modernist aesthetics, Chinese literature on the stage and screen, Patriotism, war and revolution, Feminism, liberalism, and socialism, Literature of reform, reflection and experimentation, Literature of Taiwan, Hong Kong, and new media. This handbook provides an integration of biographical narrative with textual analysis, maintaining a subtle balance between comprehensive overview and in-depth examination. As such, it is an essential reference guide for all students and scholars of Chinese literature.

Building on recent scholarship on Global Romanticism, it develops a reciprocal cross-cultural model of scholarship in which Asian Romanticism is recognized as itself an important part of the Romantic literary tradition. It explores the connections between canonical British Romantic authors including Austen, Blake, Byron, Shelley, and Wordsworth and prominent Asian writers including Natsume Soseki, Rabindranath Tagore, and Xu Zhimo. The essays also challenge Eurocentric assumptions about reception and periodization, exploring how since the early nineteenth century British Romanticism has been creatively adapted and transformed by Asian writers
