Teaching Shakespeare Beyond the Major M. Tyler Sasser, Emma K. Atwood, 2024-02-22 This edited collection considers the task of teaching Shakespeare in general education college courses a task which is often considered obligatory perfunctory and ancillary to a professor's primary goals of research and upper level teaching The contributors apply a variety of pedagogical strategies for teaching general education students who are often freshmen or sophomores non majors and or non traditional students Offering instructors practical classroom approaches to Shakespeare's language performance and critical theory the essays in this collection explicitly address the unique pedagogical situations of today's general education college classroom

Performing Shakespearean Appropriations Darlena Ciraulo, Matthew Kozusko, Robert Sawyer, 2022-06-29 Performing Shakespearean Appropriations explores the production and consumption of Shakespeare in acts of adaptation and appropriation across time periods and through a range of performance topics The ten essays moving from the seventeenth to the twenty first century address uses of Shakespeare in the novel television cinema and digital media Drawing on Christy Desmet's work several contributors figure appropriation as a posthumanist enterprise that engages with electronic Shakespeare by dismantling reassembling and recreating Shakespearean texts in and for digital platforms The collection thus looks at media and performance technologies diachronically in its focus on Shakespeare's afterlives Contributors also construe the notion of performance broadly to include performances of selves of communities of agencies and of authenticity either Shakespeare's or the user's or both The essays examine both specific performances and larger trends across media and they consider a full range of modes from formal and professional to casual and amateur from the fixed and traditional to the ephemeral the itinerant and the irreverent

Shapes, Scenes and Strokes: Book Reviews 2015 Manuel Augusto Antão, 2016-01-13 The experience of thinking about preparing or writing a text be it a book review or about an art exhibition cannot be limited solely to the artistic experience There must always be another kind of challenge I want that elusive thing that I found together with the encounter that I had with the object and the experience we lived together Every day when I wake up I don't think about writing but I wonder whether I'll be able to rise to the calling of that particular object a book a painting a play opera etc The characters in them are never marginal figures I know that they exist but I do not know them I do not confront myself with them or I only do so in highly stereotypical situations where they almost become invisible When I write about something this is my attempt at turning the invisible into the visible

Talking Back to Shakespeare Martha Tuck Rozett, 1994 This book is about the way in which Shakespeare's plays have inspired readers to talk back and about some of the forms such talking back can assume It is also about the way different interpretive communities including students read their cultural political and moral assumptions into Shakespeare's plays appropriating and transforming elements of plot character and verbal text while challenging what they see as the ideological premises of the plays Texts that talk back to Shakespeare pose questions offer alternatives take liberties and fill in gaps Some of the transformations discussed in Talking Back to Shakespeare challenge deeply held assumptions such as for instance that Hamlet is a tragic hero and Shylock a stereotypical grasping usurer Others invent prior or subsequent lives for Shakespeare s characters women characters in particular so as to account for their actions and imagine their lives more fully than Shakespeare chooses to do Very few of these works have received much critical attention and some are virtually unknown or forgotten Rather than a comprehensive study of Shakespeare transformations Talking Back to Shakespeare is an innovative exploration of the kinship between the kind of talking back that occurs in the classroom and the kind to be found in texts produced by writers who rewrite some of Shakespeare s most frequently taught and performed plays Such re visions unsettle the cultural authority of the plays and expose the accumulated lore that surrounds them to probing often irreverent scrutiny Much of the talking back comes from marginalized readers women like Lillie Wyman author of Gertrude of Denmark An Interpretive Romance and other nineteenth century women critics or Jewish writers like Arnold Wesker whose play The Merchant transforms the relationship between Antonio and Shylock Some talking back comes from an international collection of oppositional voices of the 1960s including Charles Marowitz Aime Cesaire Eugene Ionesco and Joseph Papp Talking Back to Shakespeare ranges from popular books like the recent Pulitzer Prize winning novel A Thousand Acres by Jane Smiley to obscure seldom read ones like Percy MacKaye s ambitious four play prequel The Mystery of Hamlet King of Denmark What these published texts share with student journal entries and transformations is the assumption familiar to postmodern readers that Shakespeare s plays are essentially unstable culturally determined constructs capable of acquiring new meanings and new forms By bringing together these two kinds of talking back Rozett challenges the traditional separation between critical and pedagogical inquiry that has until recently dominated English studies
