The Limits of Labour David Bright, 2011-11-01 In a few short decades before the First World War Calgary was transformed from a frontier outpost into a complex industrial metropolis With industrialization there emerged a diverse and equally complex working class David Bright explores the various levels of class formation and class identity in the city to argue that Calgary s reputation as a prewar centre of labour conservatism is in need of revision Bright also delineates the trials of the Calgary labour movement in the 1920s Internal divisions and dissent prevented the movement from realizing the potential strength of the working class Instead even as local capitalism restructured itself political and industrial labour organizations wilfully fragmented their own base of support In particular they failed to address the concerns and needs of the growing number of unemployed in the city a neglect that foreshadowed events of the 1930s This failure left the labour movement unable to meet the challenge of the Great Depression In part at least the demise of labour as a viable political alternative in Calgary paved the way for the rise of Social Credit Using Calgary as a model The Limits of Labour reasserts the need to place class formation at the heart of the development of western Canada and provides an historical context to the renewed struggle of labour for social justice in the 1990s

Vancouver Past: Essays in Social History Robert A. J. McDonald, Jean Barman, 1986-01-01 Focusing on Vancouver's social history the essays written for this special edition of BC Studies treat hitherto neglected areas of the city's past and bring new insights into how its residents lived and worked Receiving particular attention is the socio economic and residential structure of Vancouver with one author arguing that the city's economy created an urban working class which was at once more complex and politically more conservative than that of the highly polarized communities on Vancouver Island and in the Interior

The History of Public Health and the Modern State, 2020-06-22 Since George Rosen's comprehensive History of Public Health first published in 1956 there has been no internationally comparative survey of the subject Over the past three decades or so however research in this field has expanded rapidly especially with regard to the history of disease and social order and public health politics and the state Most of these studies have been highly scholarly and specialised and often dealing with only one aspect of public health in any one national context The essays here examine the road history of public health in different national contexts in order to provide a work of comparative reference that could be used as a teaching aid The book focuses on whether the construction of a public health system is an inherent characteristic of the managerial function of modern political systems Thus each essay traces the steps leading to the growth of health government in various nations examining the specific conflicts and contradictions which each incurred As a result the volume highlights the need for further comparative analysis of public health systems as a highly fruitful topic for future study

Unplanned Suburbs Richard Harris, 1999-10-07 It is widely believed that only the growth of mass suburbs after World War II brought suburban living within reach of blue collar workers immigrants and racial minorities But in this original and intensive study of Toronto Richard Harris shows that even prewar suburbs were socially and ethnically diverse with a significant number of lower income North American families making their homes on the urban fringe In the United States and Canada lack of planning set the stage for a uniquely North American tragedy Unplanned Suburbs serves as a reminder of the dangers of unchecked suburban growth The New Urban Frontier Lionel Frost,1991 Explores changes in city density by comparing Melbourne Los Angeles Vancouver Auckland and other new frontier cities Includes a new interpretation of the effect of development on problems faced by frontier cities and a detailed bibliography The author lectures on economics and economic history at La Trobe University "Architecture, Design and Craft in Toronto 1900-1940 " Alla Myzelev,2017-07-05 Toronto the largest and one of the most multicultural cities in Canada boasts an equally interesting and diverse architectural heritage Architecture Design and Craft in Toronto 1900 1940 tells a story of the significant changes in domestic life in the first 40 years of the twentieth century Adopting a multidisciplinary approach to studies of residential spaces the author examines how questions of modernity and modern living influenced not only architectural designs but also interior furnishings modes of transportation and ways to spend leisure time The book discusses several case studies some of which are known both locally and internationally for example Casa Loma while others such as Guild of All Arts or Sherwood have been virtually unstudied by historians of visual culture The overall goal of the book is to put Toronto on the map of scholars of urban design and architecture and to uncover previously unknown histories of design craft and domesticity in Toronto This study will be of interest not only to the academic community namely architects designers craftspeople and scholars of these disciplines along with social historians but also the general public interested in local history and or visual culture Aboriginal Peoples and the Law Bradford Morse,1985-02-15

Barry Cullingworth,2002-09-26 The Political Culture of Planning is written for two quite distinct readerships The main body of the book synthesizes a mass of information to provide an overview of a complex and amorphous field This material is designed to meet the needs of students who require a succinct account of the American system of land use planning These readers can ignore the notes For those who are embarking upon a much wider and deeper study of land use planning in the US the notes are crucial they provide the guideposts to an immensely rich literature The first four parts of the text present the main issues of land use planning in the US Part 1 assesses the US zoning system The introductory chapter discusses the meaning of zoning and its difference from planning the primacy of local governments the constitutional framework and the role of the courts Chapter two provides the historical background to zoning and an outline of the classic Euclid case Chapter three discusses the objectives and nature of zoning and the use which local governments have made of its inherently inflexible character Chapter four acts as a corrective to this view describing how lawyers and planners have shown remarkable ingenuity in adapting zoning to the demands of a changing society Part 2 deals with the perennial issues of discrimination financing infrastructure for new development and the process for negotiating zoning matters Part 3 presents a discussion of two overlapping issues of increasing significance aesthetics and historic preservation Part 4 focusses on the main issue facing land use planners attempting to channel the forces of development into spatial forms held to be socially desirable Part 5 consists of a series of broad ranging essays which discuss land use planning in the US its institutional and cultural framework and the reasons for its particular character Part 6 discusses the limited possibilities for land use reform in the US drawing on the author s considerable experience in both Britain and Canada in order to interpret the limitations and potentialities of land use planning in the US
