Sharing Global Resources:

Marine Genetic Resources, Access and Benefit Sharing Bevis Fedder, 2013-05-29 Access to genetic resources and Benefit Sharing ABS has been promoted under the Convention on Biological Diversity with the aim of combining biodiversity conservation goals with economic development. However, as this book shows, since its inception in 1992, implementation has encountered multiple challenges and obstacles. This is particularly so in the marine environment where interest in genetic resources for pharmaceuticals and nutrients has increased. This is partly because of the lack of clarity of terminology but also because of the terms of the comprehensive law of the sea UNCLOS and transboundary issues of delineating ownership of marine resources. The author explains and compares relevant provisions and concepts under ABS and the law of the sea, taking access, benefit sharing, monitoring, compliance, and dispute settlement into consideration. He also provides an overview of the implementation status of ABS relevant measures in user states and identifies successful ABS transactions. A key unique feature of the book is to illustrate how biological databases can serve as the central scientific infrastructure to implement the global multilateral benefit sharing mechanism proposed by the Nagoya Protocol. The research for this book was supported by both the Bremen International Graduate School for Marine Sciences GLOMAR and the International Research Training Group INTERCOAST Integrated Coastal Zone and Shelf Sea Research. Sharing the World's Resources Oscar Schachter, 1977 No area of the world has been viewed by Americans with greater moral disapproval and yet less attention than southern Africa, writes Anthony Lake in the introduction to The Tar Baby. Option: Feeling that there is much to be learned from an examination of the American response to the Rhodesian problem, he offers a detailed account of America's Southern Rhodesia policy since the Smith government's unilateral declaration of independence from Great Britain in 1965. The book provides information essential to an understanding of the American approach to the current crisis in the region. The author's use of previously undisclosed materials and interviews with U.S. foreign policymakers gives the reader an inside look not only at the Rhodesian question but also at the politics of American foreign policy. Real-time Systems Kuodi Jian, 2016-06-08

The Age of Capitalism, Consumer Culture, and the Collapse of Nature in the Anthropocene Jack Thornburg, 2024-10-02. The Age of Capitalism, Consumer Culture, and the Collapse of Nature in the Anthropocene argues that the stability of post-industrial/postmodern society is threatened by the convergence of three distinct yet interrelated crises: environmental degradation, capitalist economic development, and the primacy of consumption and self-absorption as the basis for economic development at the expense of community and social relationships. Jack Thornburg contrasts advanced modern society with indigenous cultures in terms of nature and conceptions of the communal self. The complex nature of capitalist-oriented society has influenced how individuals conceptualize themselves. The outcome the author contends is a competitive society in which individuals are alienated, living in uncertain times. One consequence of these crises, all of which derive from the Enlightenment and the concomitant appearance and evolution of capitalism, has been the destruction of a worldview balancing and connecting well-being with prosperity of the natural world. Money and materialism cannot buy happiness, as capitalist narrative asserts. Thornburg claims that the happiness sought by individuals seeking meaning through consumption can only be realized by reintegrating nature with the human spirit.
