Looking North Art From The University Of Alaska Museum:

Looking North University of Alaska Museum, Aldona Jonaitis, Susan McInnis, Alvin Amason, 1998 The University of Alaska Museum's collection of Alaskan art ranges from 2 000 year old ivory carvings to paintings done in the 1990s LOOKING NORTH presents 138 of the Museum's most treasured works The book also engages the reader intellectually challenging him or her to see each piece from multiple perspectives 146 illustrations 135 in color An Annotated Bibliography of Inuit Art Richard C. Crandall, Susan M. Crandall, 2015-07-25 Archaeological digs have turned up sculptures in Inuit lands that are thousands of years old but Inuit art as it is known today only dates back to the beginning of the 1900s Early art was traditionally produced from soft materials such as whalebone and tools and objects were also fashioned out of stone bone and ivory because these materials were readily available The Inuit people are known not just for their sculpture but for their graphic art as well the most prominent forms being lithographs and stonecuts This work affords easy access to information to those interested in any type of Inuit art There are annotated entries on over 3 761 articles books catalogues government documents and other publications The Museums and Collections of Higher Education Andrew Simpson, 2022-12-23 The Museums and Collections of Higher Education provides an analysis of the historic connections between materiality and higher education developed through diverse examples of global practice Outlining the different value propositions that museums and collections bring to higher education the historic link between objects evidence and academic knowledge is examined with reference to the origin point of both types of organisation Museums and collections bring institutional reflection cross disciplinary bridges digital extension options and participatory potential Given the two primary sources of text and object a singular source type predisposes a knowledge system to epistemic stasis whereas mixed sources develop the potential for epistemic disruption and possible change Museums and collections therefore are essential in the academies of higher learning With the many challenges confronting humanity it is argued that connecting intellect with social action for societal change through university museums should be a contemporary manifestation of the social contract of universities Much has been written about museums and universities but there is little about university museums and collections This book will interest museum scholars and practitioners especially those unaware that university museums are at the forefront of museological creativity It will also be of interest to academics and the growing number of leaders and managers in the modern university Anthropomorphic Images in Rock Art Paintings and Rock Carvings Terence Meaden, Herman Bender, 2020-02-27 In rock art humanlike images appear widely throughout the ages The artworks discussed in this book range from paintings engravings or scratchings on cave walls and rock shelters images pecked into rocky surfaces or upon standing stones and major sacred sites in which exists the possibility of recovering the meanings intended by the artists Imperial Museum Dynasties in Europe Alison L. Kahn, 2023-09-12 This book reveals the history of the Vatican's ethnographic collections by exploring the imperial scientific technological and religious agendas behind its collecting and curating practices in the early twentieth century It focuses on two principal contributors the academic priest and Pope's Curator Father Wilhelm Schmidt SVD and the missionary and linguist Father Franz Kirschbaum SVD Their narratives are embedded in a unique set of comparisons between the liberal humanist ideals that underpinned the 1851 Great Exhibition mid nineteenth century German museology and the 1925 Pontifical Missionary Exhibition It relates to the period of high colonialism and rampant missionary activity worldwide It unravels the complicated political and ideological stance taken by the Catholic Church and its place within the science religion debates of its time Establishing an essential link between the secular and catholic practices of collecting and curating ethnographic objects from non Western traditions the author proposes a broader framework for post colonial approaches to scholarly studies of ethnographic collections including those of the Catholic Church This book appeals to students and scholars of anthropology museum studies history art history religion politics and cultural studies

Archaeological Approaches to Shamanism Dragoş

Hornig, 1999 Planning and construction of the James Bay Hydroelectric project began in the early 1970s when the effect of such projects on the physical and social environment was seldom considered As the project matured however its unique and diverse environmental impacts came under intense scrutiny on both sides of the border The first mega scale hydro project to be built in the sub Arctic capable of generating as much electricity as fifteen nuclear power plants its impact includes disruption of vast areas in an extremely fragile ecosystem as well as displacement of native peoples and the introduction of dangerous levels of mercury into their food supply The debate over these complex environmental issues has been further complicated by political issues stemming from the importance of the project to the economic development of Quebec and the sale of at least ten percent of the electricity generated the United States The contributors examine core issues of the controversy both in relation to James Bay and to other large hydroelectric projects such as the Aswan dam in Egypt and the Three Gorges dam in China Providing insights from an unusual variety of disciplines the authors offer important considerations that must be taken into account as Quebec assesses additional phases of hydroelectric development of the watershed east of Hudson Bay Contributors include Raymond B Coppinger Hampshire College Bill Dale Roebuck Dartmouth Medical School Will Ryan Hampshire College Adrian Tanner Memorial University Stanley L Warner Hampshire College Kessler E Woodward University of Alaska and Oran R Young Dartmouth College James F Hornig is professor emeritus of chemistry and environmental studies Dartmouth College
