Bioscience - Lost in Translation? Richard Barker, 2016-09-08 Medical innovation as it stands today is fundamentally unsustainable There is a widening gap between what biomedical research promises and the impact that it is currently achieving in terms of patient benefit and health system improvement This book highlights the global problem of the ineffective translation of bioscience innovation into health system improvements and its consequences analyses the underlying causative factors and provides powerful prescriptions for change to close the gap It contrasts the progress in biomedicine with other areas of scientific and technological endeavour such as information technology in which there are faster and more reliable returns for society The author's career has spanned pharmaceuticals, diagnostics, and health informatics, and he draws lessons from a host of case examples in which bottlenecks have prevented progress, such as in dementia and antibiotic-resistant infections, and from many in which these barriers have been overcome, such as HIV therapy and targeted cancer treatment. The new era of precision medicine holds the greatest promise of closing this innovation gap. Along with techniques such as open innovation and adaptive development, powerful new genomics and digital health tools are poised to transform the productivity of life sciences. Bioscience Lost in Translation lays out a fresh and provocative strategy for advancing the innovation process, shaping the right policy environment, and building an ecosystem to deliver the 21st-century cures that are urgently needed.

Lost in the Fifties, Wheeler Dixon examines the lost films and directors of the 1950s. Contrasting traditional themes of love, marriage, and family, the author's 1950s film world unveils once-taboo issues, and television shows such as Captain Midnight are juxtaposed with the cheerful world of I Love Lucy. Lost in Bliss Lexi Blake, Sophie Oak, 2018-09-25 Released in a second edition with new content, Laura Niles walked out the door and never looked back. As she left Washington DC, her career was in ruins, and her love life decimated. Her desperate flight eventually led her to Bliss, Colorado, where she managed to find a new home and a little peace. That will have to be enough because Laura cannot imagine finding happiness without the men she left behind. For five years, Rafe Kincaid and Cameron Briggs have searched for the only woman they ever loved. When she disappeared, everything became crystal clear. For one night, everything had been perfect, and instead of embracing what they had found, they let it all slip away. They had let worries about their FBI careers and what others might think destroy the most precious gift they had ever been given. Now they have finally tracked her down, and they want answers. Laura is shocked when her former loves show up in her new home. When the full force of the FBI arrives with them, Laura knows that the quirky little town is in for a rough ride. The killer that ruined her life has been watching and waiting for the opportunity to strike again. For Rafe, Cam, and Laura, it's time for second chances to stop a monster and to reclaim everything they lost.

Lost in Translation Suzanne Ferriss, 2023-03-09 Sofia Coppola's Lost in Translation (2003) brings two Americans together in Tokyo, each experiencing a personal crisis. Charlotte Scarlett Johansson, a recent graduate in philosophy, faces an uncertain professional future, while Bob Harris (Bill Murray), an established celebrity, questions his choices at midlife. Both are distant emotionally and spatially from their spouses. They are lost until they develop an intimate connection. In the film's poignant, famously ambiguous closing scene, they find each other only to separate. In this close look at the multi-award-winning film, Suzanne Ferriss mirrors Lost in Translation's structuring device of travel: her analysis takes the form of a trip from planning to departure. She details the complexities of filming a 27-day shoot with no permits in Tokyo, explores Coppola's allusions to fine art, subtle colour palette, and use of music over words, and examines the characters' experiences of the Park Hyatt Tokyo and excursions outside, together and alone. She also re-evaluates the film in relation to Coppola's other features as the product of an established director with a distinctive cinematic signature: Coppolism.

Fundamentally Ferriss argues that Lost in Translation is not only a cinema classic but classic Coppola too NIGHT PEOPLE, Book 1 - Things We Lost in the Night Larry J.
