Lotta Schmidt and Other Stories, by Anthony Trollope (Short Stories) Anthony Trollope, 2016-06-23 The tales in this collection as with those of Tales of All Countries encompass a variety of themes and are set in a number of different lands Lotta Schmidt herself is an attractive young woman of Vienna whose heart is melted by the sensitive zither playing of her admirer Herr Crippel The two generals in the story of that name are soldiers on opposing sides in the American Civil War Father Giles of Ballymoy is an hospitable Irish priest whose strange ways are at first misinterpreted by an English visitor and Miss Ophelia Gledd has two suitors one American and one English both of whom are representatives of all their fellow countrymen Anthony Trollope 24 April 1815 6 December 1882 was one of the most successful prolific and respected English novelists of the Victorian era Among his best loved works is a series of novels collectively known as the Chronicles of Barsetshire which revolves around the imaginary county of Barsetshire He also wrote perceptive novels on political social and gender issues and on other topical matters Thomas Anthony Trollope Anthony s father was a barrister Though a clever and well educated man and a Fellow of New College Oxford he failed at the bar due to his bad temper In addition his ventures into farming proved unprofitable and he lost an expected inheritance when an elderly childless uncle remarried and had children As a son of landed gentry he wanted his sons to be raised as gentlemen and to attend Oxford or Cambridge Anthony Trollope suffered much misery in his boyhood owing to the disparity between the privileged background of his parents and their comparatively small means Born in London Anthony attended Harrow School as a free day pupil for three years from the age of seven because his father s farm b acquired for that reason lay in that neighbourhood After a spell at a private school at Sunbury he followed his father and two older brothers to Winchester College where he remained for three years He returned to Harrow as a day boy to reduce the cost of his education Trollope had some very miserable experiences at these two public schools They ranked as two of the most elite schools in England but

Trollope had no money and no friends and was bullied a great deal At the age of twelve he fantasized about suicide However he also daydreamed constructing elaborate imaginary worlds In 1827 his mother Frances Trollope moved to America with Trollope s three younger siblings to Nashoba Commune After that failed she opened a bazaar in Cincinnati which proved unsuccessful Thomas Trollope joined them for a short time before returning to the farm at Harrow but Anthony stayed in England throughout His mother returned in 1831 and rapidly made a name for herself as a writer soon earning a good income His father s affairs however went from bad to worse He gave up his legal practice entirely and failed to make enough income from farming to pay rents to his landlord Lord Northwick In 1834 he fled to Belgium to avoid arrest for debt The whole family moved to a house near Bruges where they lived entirely on Frances s earnings In Belgium Anthony was offered a commission in an Austrian cavalry regiment To accept it he needed to learn French and German he had a year in which to acquire these languages To learn them without expense to himself and his family he took a position as an usher in a school in Brussels which position made him the tutor of thirty boys After six weeks of this however he received an offer of a clerkship in the General Post Office obtained through a family friend He returned to London in the autumn of 1834 to take up this post appearance without often coming up to our English ideas of prettiness. Sometimes they do fully come up to our English idea of beauty. They are generally dark, tall, light in figure with bright eyes which are however very unlike the bright eyes of Italy and which constantly remind the traveller that his feet are carrying him eastward in Europe. But perhaps the peculiar characteristic in their faces which most strikes a stranger is a certain look of almost fierce independence as though they had recognised the necessity and also acquired the power of standing alone and of protecting themselves. I know no young women by whom the assistance of a man's arm seems to be so seldom required as the young women of Vienna. They almost invariably dress well generally preferring black or colours that are very dark and they wear hats that are I believe of Hungarian origin very graceful in form but which are peculiarly calculated to add something to that assumed savageness of independence of which I have spoken. Both the girls who were walking in the Burgplatz were of the kind that I have attempted to describe. Marie Weber was older and not so tall and less attractive than her friend but as her position in life was fixed and as she was engaged to marry a cutter of diamonds I will not endeavour to interest the reader specially in her personal appearance. Lotta Schmidt was essentially a Viennese pretty girl of the special Viennese type. She was tall and slender but still had none of that appearance of feminine weakness which is so common among us with girls who are tall and slim. She walked as though she had plenty both of strength and courage for all purposes of life without the assistance of any extraneous aid. Her hair was jet black and very plentiful and was worn in long curls which were brought round from the back of her head over her shoulders. Her eyes were blue, dark blue and were clear and deep rather than bright. Her nose was well formed but somewhat prominent and made you think at the first glance of the tribes of Israel. But yet no observer of the physiognomy of races would believe for half a moment that Lotta Schmidt was a Jewess. Indeed the type of form which I am endeavouring to describe is in truth as far removed from the Jewish type as it is from the Italian and it has no connexion whatever with that which we ordinarily conceive to be the German type. But overriding everything in her personal appearance in her form, countenance and gait was that singular fierceness of independence as though she were constantly asserting that she would never submit herself to the inconvenience of feminine softness. And yet Lotta Schmidt was a simple girl with a girl's heart looking forward to find all that she was to have of human happiness in the love of some man and expecting and hoping to do her duty as a married woman and the mother of a family. Nor would she have been at all coy in saying as much had the subject of her life's prospects become matter of conversation in any company no more than one lad would be coy in saying that he hoped to be a doctor or another in declaring a wish for the army. When the two girls had walked twice round the hoarding within which stood all those tons of bronze which were intended to represent Prince Eugene they crossed over the centre of the Burgplatz passed under the other equestrian statue and came to the gate leading into the Volksgarten. There just at the entrance they were overtaken by a man with a fiddle case under his arm who raised his hat to them and then shook hands with both of them. Ladies he said are you coming in to hear a little music? We will do our best Herr Crippel always does well said Marie Weber There is never any doubt when one comes to hear him Marie why do you flatter him said Lotta I do not say half to his face that you said just now behind his back said Marie Index to Short Stories ,1929 Index to Short Stories--Supplement Ina Ten Eyck Firkins,1929 Ralph the Heir Anthony
