Architecture as the Ethics of Climate Jin Baek, 2016-06-10 At a time when climate and ethics have become so important to architectural debate this book proposes an entirely new way for architects to engage with these core issues Drawing on Tetsuro Watsuji's 1889-1960 philosophy the book illuminates climate not as a collection of objective natural phenomena but as a concrete form of bond in which who we are the subjective human experience is indivisibly intertwined with the natural phenomena The book further elucidates the inter personal nature of climatic experiences criticizing a view that sees atmospheric effects of climate under the guise of personal experientialism and reinforcing the linkage between climate and ethos as the appropriateness of a setting for human affairs This ethical premise of climate stretches the horizon of sustainability as pertaining not only to man's solitary relationship with natural phenomena a predominant trend in contemporary discourse of sustainability but also to man's relationship with man Overcoming climatic determinism regional determinism too and expanding the ethics of the inter personal to the level where the whole and particulars are joined through the dialectics of the mutually negating opposites Jin Baek develops a new thesis engaging with the very urgent issues inherent in sustainable architecture Crucially the book explores examples that join climate and the dynamics of the inter personal including Japanese vernacular residential architecture the white residential architecture of Richard Neutra contemporary architectural works and urban artifacts by Tadao Ando and Aldo Rossi Beautifully illustrated this book is an important contribution to the discourse which surrounds architecture climate and ethics and encourages the reader to think more broadly about how to respond to the current challenges facing the profession

The Bookman, 1903 The American Catalogue, 1901 American national trade bibliography Urban Transformations and the Architecture of Additions Rodrigo Perez de Arce, 2014-08-07 Rodrigo Perez de Arce's essay Urban Transformations and Architectural Additions was published during the formative stages of Post Modernism at the point where theory was becoming seriously established Jencks' first essays formalising the term Post Modernism in architecture and the revised Learning from Las Vegas were published the previous year In planning terms modernism had become associated with comprehensive redevelopment and forms of urban organisation that ignored context history and any sense of tradition De Arce considered the essential nature of buildings and the richness of historic urban form and explored how robust that essence was over time He looked at the value of essential remnants and rich complexities in maintaining a sense of continuity and relevance Having explored the adaptation process in history de Arce went on to see how such a process might be simulated in contemporary cities with modern buildings using additions and layers to change them from objects in infinite windswept space to being part of a rich urban fabric which described urban place To do this he used concrete examples housing schemes by James Stirling new government centres in Chandigarh and Dacca and more prosaic 60 s housing blocks The paper had a fundamental influence on the way that architects and planners thought about the nature of cities as dynamic organisms that were tangible to human beings completely opposite to the systems thinking of the time It contributed to ideas about the importance of street place and city block which influenced so much recent regeneration practice As we enter a phase of development where the reuse and adaptation of existing buildings is becoming paramount from both an economic and sustainable point of view Perez de Arce s paper gives important insights into how to think about the process positively

A Topology of Everyday Constellations Georges Teyssot, 2013-02-22 The threshold as both boundary and bridge investigations of spaces public and private local and global Today spaces no longer represent a bourgeois haven nor are they the sites of a classical harmony between work and leisure private and public the local and the global The house is not merely a home but a position for negotiations with multiple spheres the technological as well as the physical and the psychological In A Topology of Everyday Constellations Georges Teyssot considers the intrusion of the public sphere into private space and the blurring of notions of interior privacy and intimacy in our societies He proposes that we rethink design in terms of a new definition of the practices of everyday life Teyssot considers the door the window the mirror and the screen as thresholds or interstitial spaces that divide the world in two the outside and the inside Thresholds he suggests work both as markers of boundaries and as bridges to the exterior The stark choice between boundary and bridge creates a middle space an in between that holds the possibility of exchanges and encounters If the threshold no longer separates public from private and if we can no longer think of the house as a bastion of privacy Teyssot asks does the body still inhabit the house or does the house evolving into a series of microdevices inhabit the body
