community and independence Reengaging the Prospects of Rhetoric Mark J. Porrovecchio, 2010-02-25 Reengaging the Prospects of Rhetoric reanimates the debate over the function and scope of rhetoric Providing a contemporary response to the volume The Prospect of Rhetoric 1971 this volume reconceptualizes that classic work to address the challenges facing the study of rhetoric today With contributions from today's leading rhetorical scholars Reengaging the Prospects of Rhetoric offers response essays to each chapter of the original work Each scholar uses his/her essay as a forum in which to address three questions As a historical document why is this essay important In terms of contemporary theory and/or practice what is the significance of the essay How can the issues raised therein be profitably addressed in the future These provocative engagements suggest that while the study of rhetoric has gained much ground in the intervening decades there is more work to be done to reestablish the primacy of rhetoric in contemporary society This volume provides students and scholars of rhetoric with a strong foundation in the issues that have shaped contemporary rhetorical theory and criticism It offers them an accessible introduction to the challenges facing future iterations of rhetorical theory and criticism As a standalone text or a supplemental resource for undergraduate and graduate courses in the history theory and criticism of rhetoric or contemporary rhetorical theory it will help to shape rhetoric's future role in communication studies and will foster interdisciplinary dialogues about the topic

Whose Public Space? Ali Madanipour, 2010-01-21 Public spaces mirror the complexities of urban societies as historic social bonds have weakened and cities have become collections of individuals public open spaces have also changed from being embedded in the social fabric of the city to being a part of more impersonal and fragmented urban environments Can making public spaces help overcome this fragmentation where accessible spaces are created through inclusive processes This book offers some answers to this question through analysing the process of urban design and development in international case studies in which the changing character level of accessibility and the tensions of making public spaces are explored The book uses a coherent theoretical outlook to investigate a series of case studies crossing the cultural divides to examine the similarities and differences of public space in different urban contexts and its critical analysis of the process of development management and use of public space with all its tensions and conflicts While each case study investigates the specificities of a particular city the book outlines some general themes in global urban processes It shows how public spaces are a key theme in urban design and development everywhere how they are appreciated and used by the people of these cities but also being contested by and under pressure from different stakeholders

My Blue Heaven Becky M. Nicolaides, 2002-05-02 In the 1920s thousands of white migrants settled in the Los Angeles suburb of South Gate Six miles from downtown and adjacent to Watts South Gate and its neighboring communities served as L A s Detroit an industrial belt for mass production of cars tires steel and other durable goods Blue collar workers built the suburb literally from the ground up using sweat equity rather than cash to construct their own homes As Becky M Nicolaides shows in My Blue Heaven this ethic of self reliance and homeownership formed the core of South Gate s identity With post World War II economic prosperity the community s emphasis shifted from building homes to protecting them as residents tried to maintain their standard of living against outside threats including the growing civil rights movement through grassroots conservative politics based on an ideal of white homeowner rights As the citizens of South Gate struggled to defend their segregated American Dream of suburban community they fanned the flames of racial inequality that erupted in the 1965 Watts riots Horizontal Learning in the High Middle Ages Micol Long,Tjamke Snijders,Steven Vanderputten,2025-10-01 The history of medieval learning has traditionally been studied as a vertical transmission of knowledge from a master to one or several disciples Horizontal Learning in the High Middle Ages Peer to Peer Knowledge Transfer in Religious Communities centres on the ways in which cohabiting peers learned and taught one another in a dialectical process how they acquired knowledge and skills but also how they developed concepts beliefs and adapted their behaviour to suit the group everything that could mold a person into an efficient member of the community This process of horizontal learning emerges as an important aspect of the medieval learning experience Progressing beyond the view that high medieval religious communities were closed homogeneous and fairly stable social groups the essays in this volume understand communities as the product of a continuous process of education and integration of new members The authors explore how group members learned from one another and what this teaches us about learning within the context of a high medieval community On Cities and Social Life Louis Wirth,1964
