

A vintage, sepia-toned photograph of a woman standing in front of a bamboo fence. She is wearing a long, plaid dress with a wide fur collar and is holding a small, dark object in her hands. The background is a dense bamboo fence, and the ground appears to be dirt or sand.

Reading Across the Pacific Robert Dixon,Nicholas Birns,2010 Reading Across the Pacific is a study of literary and cultural engagement between the United States and Australia from a contemporary interdisciplinary perspective The book examines the relations of the two countries shifting the emphasis from the broad cultural patterns that are often compared to the specific networks interactions and crossings that have characterised Australian literature in the United States and American literature in Australia In the 21st century both American and Australian literatures are experiencing new challenges to the very different paradigms of literary history and criticism each inherited from the 20th century In response to these challenges scholars of both literatures are seizing the opportunity to reassess and reconfigure the conceptual geography of national literary spaces as they are reformed by vectors that evade or exceed them including the transnational the local and the global The essays in Reading Across the Pacific are divided into five sections National literatures and transnationalism Poetry and poetics Literature and popular culture The Cold War and Publishing history and transpacific print cultures

Love in a Time of Slaughters Susan McHugh,2019-04-29 Love in a Time of Slaughters examines a diverse array of contemporary creative narratives in which genocide and extinction blur species lines in order to show how such stories can promote the preservation of biological and cultural diversity in a time of man made threats to species survival From indigenous novels and Japanese anime to art installations and truth commission reports Susan McHugh analyzes source material from a variety of regions and cultures to highlight cases where traditional knowledge works in tandem with modern ways of thinking about human animal relations In contrast to success stories of such relationships the narratives McHugh highlights show the vulnerabilities of affective bonds as well as the kinds of loss shared when interspecific relationships are annihilated In this thoughtful critique McHugh explores the potential of these narratives to become a more powerful urgent strategy of resistance to the forces that work to dehumanize people eradicate animals and threaten biodiversity As we unevenly contribute to the sixth great extinction this timely compelling study sheds light on what constitutes an effective response from a humanities focused interdisciplinary perspective McHugh s work will appeal to scholars working at the crossroads of human animal studies literature and visual culture as well as artists and activists who are interested in the intersections of animal politics with genocide and indigeneity

Pacific Christian Advocate, 1907 Pacific Rural Press, 1897 Pacific Islands Guestworkers in Australia Kirstie Petrou, John Connell, 2022-12-01 This is the first book to examine the contemporary seasonal migration of Pacific islanders to Australia through the Seasonal Worker Programme SWP It reflects on this new age of guestwork from a broad social economic political and cultural perspective in both source countries and destinations In so doing it offers a critical perspective on different phases of managed labour migration from nineteenth century practices of blackbirding to the present day This book examines why and how guestworker policies and programmes have developed and the impact this has had in Australia and for the people villages and islands of the sending states It particularly focuses on Vanuatu the main source of labour and draws upon studies based in Australia Vanuatu and other Pacific Island countries The book therefore traces new patterns of migration with intriguing economic and social consequences that are restructuring parts of rural and regional Australia in response to labour demands from agriculture and evolving regional geopolitics Cross Pacific Passion Ilya; Melanie Shambat, 2010-07-30 Ilya and Melanie wrote a collection of poems to each other from the time they first read each other's work to the time Ilya came to Australia to be with Melanie The Mid-Pacific Magazine, 1912

Illuminative Moments in Pacific Northwest Prose Richard W. Etulain, 2024-03-12 Richard W. Etulain examines the emergence of Pacific Northwest prose beginning in the early nineteenth century up to the present. The book provides an introductory overview to a vast subject through illuminative moments that illustrate major shifts in the literary history of the region. The book's focus is on novels, histories, and other nonfiction works that trace Pacific Northwest prose in chronological order through three periods: the frontier, regional, and post-regional eras. Etulain provides extensive coverage of the writings of notable authors, including novelists Frederic Homer Balch and Mary Hallock Foote, offering an understanding of frontier, romantic, and Local Color Writers. He also explores the works of H. G. Merriam and novelist H. L. Davis, illustrating regional prose writings. Finally, Etulain includes a panoply of writers who exemplify an emphasis on gender, race, and ethnicity and environmental texts from the post-WWII period. Illuminative Moments in Pacific Northwest Prose delivers a first-time overview of the region's literary contributions that will interest both scholars and general readers alike. Transtopia in the Sinophone Pacific Howard Chiang, 2021-04-06 As a broad category of identity, transgender has given life to a vibrant field of academic research since the 1990s. Yet the Western origins of the field have tended to limit its cross-cultural scope. Howard Chiang proposes a new paradigm for doing transgender history in which geopolitics assumes central importance. Defined as the antidote to transphobia, transtopia challenges a minoritarian view of transgender experience and makes room for the variability of transness on a historical continuum. Against the backdrop of the Sinophone Pacific, Chiang argues that the concept of transgender identity must be rethought beyond a purely Western frame. At the same time, he challenges China-centrism in the study of East Asian gender and sexual configurations. Chiang brings Sinophone studies to bear on trans theory to deconstruct the ways in which sexual normativity and Chinese imperialism have been produced through one another. Grounded in an eclectic range of sources, from the archives of sexology to press reports of intersexuality, films about castration, and records of social activism, this book reorients anti-transphobic inquiry at the crossroads of area studies, medical humanities, and queer theory. Timely and provocative, Transtopia in the Sinophone Pacific highlights the urgency of interdisciplinary knowledge in debates over the promise and future of human diversity. Mothers' Darlings of the South Pacific Judith A. Bennett, Angela Wanhalla, 2016-03-31 Over the course of World War II, two million American military personnel occupied bases throughout the South Pacific, leaving behind a human legacy of at least 4,000 children born to indigenous mothers. Based on interviews conducted with many of these American indigenous children and several of the surviving mothers, Mothers' Darlings of the South Pacific explores the intimate relationships that existed between untold numbers of U.S. servicemen and indigenous women during the war and considers the fate of their mixed-race children. These relationships developed in the major U S bases of the South Pacific Command from Bora Bora in the east across to Solomon Islands in the west and from the Gilbert Islands in the north to New Zealand in the southernmost region of the Pacific The American military command carefully managed interpersonal encounters between the sexes applying race based U S immigration law on Pacific peoples to prevent marriage across the color line For indigenous women and their American servicemen sweethearts legal marriage was impossible giving rise to a generation of fatherless children most of whom grew up wanting to know more about their American lineage Mothers Darlings of the South Pacific traces these children s stories of loss emotion longing and identity and of lives lived in the shadow of global war Each chapter discusses the context of the particular island societies and shows how this often determined the ways intimate relationships developed and were accommodated during the war years and beyond Oral histories reveal what the records of colonial governments and the military have largely ignored providing a perspective on the effects of the U S occupation that until now has been disregarded by Pacific war historians The richness of this book will appeal to those interested the Pacific World War II as well as intimacy family race relations colonialism identity and the legal structures of U S immigration
