

DECLARATION OF THE RIGHTS OF MAN AND CITIZEN

PRÉAMBULE

LES représentants du peuple Français constitués en assemblée nationale, considérant que l'ignorance, l'oubli ou le mépris des droits de l'homme sont les seules causes des malheurs publics et de la corruption des gouvernements, ont résolu d'exposer dans une déclaration solennelle les droits naturels, inaliénables et sacrés de l'homme; afin que, cette déclaration étant constamment présente à tous les membres du corps social, elle rappelle sans cesse leurs droits et leurs devoirs, qu'elle fonde le pouvoir législatif et ceux du pouvoir exé-

VII.

NUL homme ne peut être accusé, arrêté ni détenu que dans les cas déterminés par la loi, et selon les formes qu'elle a prescrites; ceux qui sollicitent, ordonnent, exécutent ou font exécuter des arrestations arbitraires, doivent être punis; mais tout citoyen appelé ou saisi en vertu de la loi, doit obéir à l'instant; il se rend coupable par la résistance.

VIII.

LA loi ne doit établir que des peines strictement et évidemment nécessaires, et nul ne peut être puni qu'en vertu d'une

Men and Citizens in the Theory of International Relations Andrew

Linklater, 1982-02-25 Men and Citizens in the Theory of International Relations deals with the tension between the obligations of citizenship and the obligations of humanity in modern theories of the state and international relations

Leisure, citizenship and working-class men in Britain, 1850-1940 Brad Beaven, 2013-07-19 From the bawdy audience of a Victorian Penny Gaff to the excitable crowd of an early twentieth century football match working class male leisure proved to be a contentious issue for contemporary observers For middle class social reformers from across the political spectrum the spectacle of popular leisure offered a view of working class habits and a means by which lifestyles and behaviour could be assessed For the mid Victorians gingerly stepping into a new mass democratic age the desire to create a bond between the recently enfranchised male worker and the nation was more important than ever This trend continued as those in governance perceived that good leisure and citizenship could fend off challenges to social stability such as imperial decline the mass degenerate city hooliganism civic and voter apathy and fascism Thus between 1850 and 1945 the issue of male leisure became enmeshed with changing contemporary debates on the encroaching mass society and its implications for good citizenry Working class culture has often been depicted as an atomised and fragmented entity lacking any significant cultural contestation Drawing on a wealth of primary and secondary source material this book powerfully challenges these recent assumptions and places social class centre stage once more Arguing that there was a remarkable continuity in male working class culture between 1850 and 1945 Beaven contends that despite changing socio economic contexts male working class culture continued to draw from a tradition of active participation and cultural contestation that was both class and gender exclusive This lively and readable book draws from fascinating accounts from those who participated in and observed contemporary popular leisure making it of importance to students and teachers of social history popular culture urban history historical geography historical sociology and cultural studies

Family Feuds Eileen Hunt Botting, 2012-02-01 Family Feuds is the first sustained comparative study of the place of the family in the political thought of Jean Jacques Rousseau Edmund Burke and Mary Wollstonecraft Eileen Hunt Botting argues that Wollstonecraft recognized both Rousseau's and Burke's influential stature in late eighteenth century debates about the family Wollstonecraft critically identified them as philosophical and political partners in the defense of the patriarchal structure of the family yet she used Rousseau's conceptions of childhood education and maternal empowerment and Burke's understanding of the family as the affective basis for political socialization as a theoretical foundation for her own egalitarian vision of the family. It is this ideal of the egalitarian family Botting contends that is one of the most important yet least appreciated legacies of Enlightenment political thought. The Woman Citizen, 1918. Relating to naturalization and citizenship status of children whose mothers are citizens of the United States, and relating to the removal of certain inequalities in matters of nationality. Mar. 28, 1933. United States. Congress. House. Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, 1933. Relating to Naturalization and Citizenship Status of Certain Children of Mothers who are Citizens of the U.S., and Relating to the Removal of Certain Distinctions in Matters of Nationality United States. Congress. House. Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, 1932.

The Business Man's Encyclopedia, 1905. Doing Justice, Doing Gender Susan Ehrlich Martin, Nancy C. Jurik, 2006-10-27. Martin and Jurik provide a clear body of evidence illuminating the gendered nature of criminal justice occupations. Of the multitude of feminist works on this topic, this is one of the best analyses available. CRIMINAL JUSTICE REVIEW Doing Justice, Doing Gender: Women in Legal and Criminal Justice Occupations is a highly readable sociologically grounded analysis of women working in traditionally male dominant justice occupations of law, policing, and corrections. This Second Edition represents not only a thorough update of research on women in these fields but a careful reconsideration of changes in justice organizations and occupations and their impact on women's justice work roles over the past 40 years. New to the Second Edition: Introduces a wider range of workplace diversity and experiences. An expanded sociological theoretical framework grasps the interplay of gender, race, ethnicity, and sexual orientation in understanding workplace identities and inequities. Provides a better understanding of the centrality of gender issues to understanding the legal and criminal justice system in general. This edition further connects women's work experiences to social trends and consequent changes in legal system and in criminal justice agencies. Offers a more international perspective. More material is included on women lawyers, police, and correctional officers in countries outside the U.S. Intended Audience: This is an excellent supplemental text for advanced undergraduate and graduate courses such as Gender Women and Work, Sociology of Work and Occupations, Women and the Criminal Justice System, and Gender Justice in the departments of Sociology, Criminal Justice, Women's Studies, and Social Work. Citizenship in Classical Athens Josine Blok, 2017-03-10. What did citizenship really mean in classical Athens? It is conventionally understood as characterised by holding political office. Since only men could do so, only they were considered to be citizens, and the community polis has appeared primarily as the scene of men's political actions. However, Athenian law defined citizens not by political office but by descent. Religion was central to the polis, and in this domain women played prominent public roles. Both men and women were called citizens. On a new reading of the evidence, Josine Blok argues that for the Athenians their polis was founded on an enduring bond with the gods. Laws anchored the polis.

commitments to humans and gods in this bond transmitted over time to male and female Athenians as equal heirs All public offices in various ways and as befitting gender and age served both the human community and the divine powers protecting Athens

The Civil Contract of Photography Ariella Azoulay, 2021-09-14 In this groundbreaking work Ariella Azoulay thoroughly revises our understanding of the ethical status of photography It must she insists be understood in its inseparability from the many catastrophes of recent history She argues that photography is a particular set of relations between individuals and the powers that govern them and at the same time a form of relations among equals that constrains that power Anyone even a stateless person who addresses others through photographs or occupies the position of a photograph's addressee is or can become a member of the citizenry of photography The crucial arguments of the book concern two groups that have been rendered invisible by their state of exception the Palestinian noncitizens of Israel and women in Western societies Azoulay's leading question is Under what legal political or cultural conditions does it become possible to see and show disaster that befalls those with flawed citizenship in a state of exception The Civil Contract of Photography is an essential work for anyone seeking to understand the disasters of recent history and the consequences of how they and their victims are represented

Institutions of Education: Then and Today Paul Cobben, 2010-04-06 The theme of Institutions of Education then and today not only corresponds with the basic questions raised in German Idealism but is also central to the question of whether it is legitimate to study German Idealism in our era Elaborating on this project immediately raises the problem of institutional differentiation which characterizes multicultural society Does the variety of educational institutions not by definition exclude the shared conception and realization of adulthood that is presupposed by German Idealism This book shows that German Idealism can still participate in the contemporary debate on education it is not only helpful in raising relevant questions but can also be transformed into positions which can deal with the pluriformity that characterizes contemporary society

Opinion of Attorney General Bates on Citizenship Edward Bates, 1862 Home and Homeland Linda L. Layne, 1994-02-18 In this provocative examination of collective identity in Jordan Linda Layne challenges long held Western assumptions that Arabs belong to easily recognizable corporate social groups Who is a true Jordanian Who is a true Bedouin These questions according to Layne are examples of a kind of pigeonholing that has distorted the reality of Jordanian national politics In developing an alternate approach she shows that the fluid social identities of Jordan emerge from an ongoing dialogue among tribespeople members of the intelligentsia Hashemite rulers and Western social scientists Many commentators on social identity in the Middle East limit their studies to the village level but Layne's goal is to discover how the identity building processes of the locality and of the nation condition each other She finds that the tribes create their own cultural homes through a dialogue with official nationalist rhetoric and Jordanian urbanites while King Hussein in turn maintains the idea of the homeland in many ways that are powerfully influenced by the tribespeople The identities so formed resemble the shifting irregular shapes of postmodernist landscapes but Hussein and the Jordanian people are also beginning to use a classically modernist linear narrative to describe themselves Layne maintains however that even with this change Jordanian identities will remain resistant to all or nothing descriptions Linda L Layne is Alma and H Erwin Hale Teaching Professor of Humanities and Social Sciences in the Department of Science and Technology Studies at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute Originally published in 1994 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Sex, Honor and Citizenship in Early Third Republic France A. Mansker, 2011-10-03 A repositioning of French women's struggle for suffrage within the distinct cultural landscape of the masculine honour system Whether activists demanded admission to the popular ritual of the duel or publicly shamed men for their extramarital sexual behaviour they appropriated extralegal honour codes to enact new civic and familial identities The Citizen's Guide John William Gibson, 1905

Gender and Citizenship Claudia Moscovici, 2000 Moscovici proposes a new understanding of how gender relations were reformulated by both male and female writers in nineteenth century France She analyzes the different versions of gendered citizenship elaborated by Friedrich Hegel George Sand Honore de Balzac Auguste Comte and Hercule Barbin revealing a shift from a single dialectical or male centered definition of citizenship to a double dialectical or bi gendered one in which each sex plays an important role in subject citizenship and is defined as the negation of the other sex Moscovici further argues that a double dialectical pattern of androgyny endows women with a relational cultural identity that secures their paradoxical roles as both representatives and outsiders to subject citizenship in nineteenth century French society and culture
