McCormack, 2004-06-14 Secured Credit drives economic activity Under English Law it is possible to create security over almost any asset but the law is widely considered to be unsatisfactory for several reasons including a cumbersome registration system a preoccupation with formalistic distinctions and the lack of clear and rationally determined priority rules Gerard McCormack examines the current state of English law highlighting its weaknesses He uses Article 9 of the American Uniform Commercial Code as a reference point this Article has successfully serviced the world's largest economy for over 40 years and is increasingly used as the basis for legislation by Commonwealth jurisdictions including Canada and New Zealand The Law Commission has suggested the enactment of similar legislation in England In addition McCormack considers if there really is a case for the priority of secured credit as well as if there are other international models to draw upon Contains the text of Article 9 The Law of Cross-border Securities Transactions H. van Houtte, 1999 A collection of essays on topical contract issues covering subjects including Paradine v Jayne foreign currency judgements agency problems in insurance law increased expense and frustration failure of consideration restitutionary consequences of illegality and proprietary estoppel The Harmonisation of National Legal Systems Antonios E. Evenett, Bernard M. Hoekman, Olivier Cattaneo, 2009 The purpose of this book is to examine the various ways in which the existing manifestations of openness including binding international accords have constrained or enhanced the options available to national policymakers during the crisis and influenced the degree and potentially even the effectiveness of cross border cooperation By examining state responses during the crisis in a number of distinct policy domains this approach may shed light on potential complementarities and tensions as governments seek to tackle sharp national recessions while being mindful of the growing role that the international dimension has played in influencing national economies in an era of globalization In principle such an examination may reveal that some permutations of national policy choices and international trade and other obligations offer greater potential than others in turn providing information on the possible scope for both domestic reforms and the global trade architecture

International Lawyer's Deskbook Lucinda A. Low, Daniel M. Drory, 2003 A reference tool for lawyers facing international legal problems outside their own areas of expertise The Law Applicable to Security Interests in Intermediated Securities Under OHADA Law Justin Monsenepwo, 2023-01-03 In recent decades the technical handling of custody business in the OHADA region has undergone a lasting change There has been a shift from a direct to an indirect holding system in which the interests of an investor in respect of the underlying securities are recorded in the books of an intermediary such as a bank or a securities firm Under the law of all states within the OHADA region the traditional conflict of laws rule for determining the enforceability of a securities pledge that occurs in the indirect holding system is the lex rei sitae or the lex cartae sitae or the lex situs rule However the traditional lex rei sitae rule cannot be appropriately applied to a system where the dematerialised securities are held through multiple layers of intermediaries located in different jurisdictions Yet until the intermediated system and the collateralisation of intermediated securities in the OHADA region will continue to operate in somewhat legally murky waters leading to more instability in the financial markets Therefore Justin Monsenepwo aims to find an appropriate and consistent approach that reflects the reality of the indirect holding system in the OHADA region Yearbook on International Investment Law & Policy 2008-2009 Karl P Sauvant, 2009-06-19 Today international investment law consists of a network of multifaceted multilayered international treaties that in one way or another involve virtually every country of the world The evolution of this network continues raising a host of issues regarding international investment law and policy especially in the area of international investment disputes This Yearbook monitors current developments in international investment law and policy focusing in Part One on trends in foreign direct investment FDI international investment agreements and investment disputes with a special look at developments in the oil and gas
