Objective: Current evidence on the associations between plasma thyroid stimulating hormone and Helicobacter pylori infection is conflicting. Therefore, our study aimed to examine TSH in relation to H. pylori infection.

Methods: Based on the US National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES) 1999–2000, a cross-sectional study was conducted with 948 participants aged 30 to 85 years. The associations between H. pylori seropositivity and TSH were evaluated using binary logistic regression models. A subgroup analysis stratified by sex, age, and body mass index was conducted.

Results: A higher serum TSH level was found in subjects with H. pylori seropositive than in subjects with H. pylori seronegative. A significant positive association was found between H. pylori seropositivity and TSH with increasing quartiles of hormonal levels in univariate regression models (Q4 vs Q1: OR = 1.659; 95% CI, 1.152–2.389) and in multivariate regression models (Q4 vs Q1: OR = 1.604; 95% CI, 1.087–2.367). In stratified analyses, the adjusted association of serum TSH with H. pylori seropositivity was statistically significant in male (Q4 vs Q1: OR = 1.894; 95% CI, 1.109–3.235), normal BMI (Q4 vs Q1: OR = 1.894; 95% CI, 1.109–3.235), overweight (Q4 vs Q1: OR = 2.124; 95% CI, 1.047–4.308), obese (Q4 vs Q1: OR = 0.429; 95% CI, 0.220–0.837), and age over 60 years (Q4 vs Q1: OR = 1.999; 95% CI, 1.118–3.575).

Conclusion: High TSH levels were associated with H. pylori infection, especially among male, overweight and elderly adults.

Preventive Nutrition Adrienne Bendich,Richard J. Deckelbaum,2001-03-06 Nutrition has been recognized as a major determinant of health for centuries Traditionally nutritional sciences have primarily targeted the prevention of diseases resulting from clinical deficiencies of essential nutrients such as scurvy and rickets Contemporary nutritional research has focused on the prevention of major diseases of Western civilization particularly cardiovascular disease and cancer as well as promoting maternal and child health and healthy aging Heart disease and cancer which were rare in most developing countries several decades ago are increasing dramatically in these countries in parallel with economic development and dietary transitions decreases in infectious diseases and increasing sedentary lifestyle and obesity Substantial evidence indicates major chronic diseases such as coronary heart disease type 2 diabetes and some cancers are largely preventable by relatively simple diet and lifestyle modifications Despite the great potential of nutrition in preventing diseases and improving health nutrition is not routinely emphasized in the education and training of physicians and other health care professionals This has resulted in inadequate nutritional knowledge and lack of skills in providing dietary counseling among many health care professionals Further more in the past decade the public's access to nutritional information has been increasing rapidly particularly through the Internet There are now hundreds of websites providing a wide range of nutritional information and selling numerous dietary products Because of the explosion in nutritional information the public's demand for nutritional advice has been increasing rapidly and will continue to rise
