examines the differences between how political science theory suggests campaigns should be run and how political consultants actually run campaigns In the wake of consultants who effortlessly move from campaigners to policymakers the dearth of knowledge about the attitudes beliefs and strategies of the consultants themselves is still a glaring absence in the analysis of American politics How can we purport to know what is happening in American political campaigns if we don t know what is on the minds of the men and women who run them This book provides a clearer understanding of modern day political campaigns by revealing what is on the minds of the people who run them With original data from consultants campaign managers and professional campaign schools author Jason Johnson examines consultant behavior on message formation policy positioning candidate recruitment Internet strategy and negative advertising and compares these practices to existing political science theory This groundbreaking research makes Political Consultants and Campaigns One Day to Sell a must have resource for all students of American politics campaign managers or anyone interested in how political campaigns in America are run Political Campaigning, Elections and the Internet Darren Lilleker,Nigel Jackson,2013-03 This book offers an in depth comparative analysis of how interactive Web 2 0 online tools including weblogs social networking sites and file sharing sites are utilised by candidates and parties during three recent election campaigns in France Belgium the US and the UK Handbook of Research on Green ICT: Technology, Business and Social Perspectives Unhelkar, B.,2010-10-31 This handbook coalesces worldwide investigations thoughts and practices in the area of Green ICT covering the technical advances methodological innovations and social changes that result in enhancements and improvements in business strategies social policies and technical implementations Provided by publisher Theories of Democratic Network Governance E.
