

How to Prevent Burglary

Take action to avoid home break-ins.

Simply put: Burglars are looking for easy targets. Here are some tips for making your home the one they skip.

Lights

- Burglars prefer dark properties. Keep your home and property well-lit by pointing bright motion detector lights at or near entrances.
- When you're away from home, leave some lights on. Better yet, schedule them to turn on at different intervals to make it seem like someone is inside.

Locks

- Not all locks are created equal. Locks vary in strength and the time it may take to cut through them. Upgrade to heavy-duty, dead bolt locks for maximum protection.
- If you just moved into a different house or apartment, change the locks and consider adding a dead bolt for extra security.

2.15 million burglaries occur each year.

Doors

- Solid core wood and metal doors are the strongest.
- Add a small peephole so you are able to identify who is outside your door without opening it.
- Sliding glass doors are especially vulnerable. Secure them with a secondary lock or wooden dowel cut to the length of the stationary window.
- Garage service doors are easy targets. Add a dead bolt. If you have an attached garage, keep the door leading to the house locked.

Windows

- Keep windows locked, especially those on the ground floor.
- Install safety glass on lower level windows.
- If you have basement windows, use locked grilles or grates (which can be easily opened from the inside in the event of a fire).

The majority of all burglaries — 65 percent — are residential.

Mail

- An overflowing mailbox is an obvious sign you're away. When traveling, ask a neighbor to collect your mail or have it held at the post office until you return.

Yard Maintenance

- Remove shrubbery from windows so you're able to clearly see outside.
- Cut down tree limbs close to elevated windows to keep burglars from climbing them to access your house.
- Long grass and out-of-control weeds signify you may be away from home. Ask a friend to maintain your lawn while you are away.
- In winter, an unshoveled driveway is a telltale sign your house is empty. Hire a service or ask a neighbor to keep it clear.

Alarms

- Alarm systems are a great secondary safety investment. Buy an alarm system that makes a loud noise and alerts local law enforcement.
- Not up for a security system? A dog is another great form of security.
- Check with an Ameriprise Auto & Home Insurance representative to find out about possible discounts for having a reliable alarm system.

Enhancing your home to prevent burglary doesn't have to be expensive. Just keep in mind that the better lit, lived-in and lively you make your property, the better.

Clarke,T. Hope,2012-12-06 This book contains the papers given at a workshop organised by the Home Office England and Wales on the subject of residential burglary This is a topic of much public concern and I welcome the Home Office initiative in mounting the workshop The contributors were all researchers and criminologists who have made a special study of burglary and their brief was to consider the implications of their work for policy As a policeman I find their work of particular interest and relevance at this time when police performance as traditionally measured by the clear up rate is not keeping pace with the increase in the numbers of burglaries coming to police attention The finding that increases in burglary are more reflective of the public's reporting habits than of any significant rise in the actual level of burglary helps with perspective but offers little comfort to policemen The 600 0 increase in the official statistics since 1970 is accompanied by a proportionate increase in police work in visiting victims searching scenes of crime writing crime reports and completing other documentation In some forces the point has been reached where available detective time is so taken up by the volume of visits and reports that there is little remaining for actual investigation But because of the random and opportunist nature of burglary it cannot be said with any confidence that increasing investigative capacity would make a significant and lasting impact on the overall burglary figures
