The International Containment of Displaced Persons Cecile Dubernet, 2017-07-12 This title was first published in 2001 This work examines four post Cold War interventions launched on behalf of people on the move international action in Iraq Bosnia Somalia and Rwanda Because these crises accompanied the emergence of the concept of Internationally Displaced Persons IDPs in international relations they have shaped the understandings of forced displacement issues such as ethnic cleansing need and humanitarian action The author looks at attitudes towards IDPs concluding that UN backed interventions regarding displaced civilians were primarily about deterring sometimes preventing them from escaping places of conflict Protection in this context became a device by which international protagonists sought to contain people on the move within the confines of their collapsed states As a result levels of safety effectively granted by the international community depended less on the vulnerability of populations than on Western fears of mass border crossings Broadening the Edges Pirkko Kourula, 2023-12-11 This ground breaking volume brings the refugee issue out of the narrow confines of refugee law into the centre of international law and international relations It reviews the concept of the refugee and the international protection of refugees from the unconventional angle of the prospects and limitations of multilateralism in the post Cold War era This approach taking conflict prevention and resolution as its point of departure ensures that Broadening the Edges Refugee Definition and International Protection Revisited is not only novel but comprehensive and practical as well It is comprehensive because it offers a review of state practice within the United Nations and regional contexts as well as a review of the practice of the United Nations inter agency system It is practical because it is based on the personal experience of its author not on theoretical models The broadening concept of security affecting the attitudes of states towards refugees is the underlying theme of the book As a result the contemporary preoccupation with how best to provide international protection to all those in need of it is reviewed from a number of relevant perspectives including that of peacekeeping sanctions and coordination and competence within the United Nations Pirkko Kourula worked for some twelve years in UNHCR in Asia Europe and the USA and was Deputy Director of UNHCR Liaison Office at United Nations Headquarters in New York from 1991 to 1996 She was also Director for Humanitarian Assistance and Food Aid at FINNIDA the Finnish International Development Agency Ministry of Foreign Affairs Preventive Action for Refugee Producing Situations Luise Drücke, 1993 Originally presented as the author s thesis Ph D Universiteat Hannover 1989 Human Rights Albert A. Zinnos, 2007 Human rights refers to the concept of human beings as having universal rights or status regardless of legal jurisdiction and likewise other localising factors such as ethnicity and nationality For many the concept of human rights is based in religious principles However because a formal concept of human rights has not been universally accepted the term has some degree of variance between its use in different local jurisdictions difference in both meaningful substance as well as in protocols for and styles of application Ultimately the most general meaning of the term is one which can only apply universally and hence the term human rights is often itself an appeal to such transcended principles without basing such on existing legal concepts The term humanism refers to the developing doctrine of such universally applicable values and it is on the basic concept that human beings have innate rights that more specific local legal concepts are often based Within particular societies human rights refers to standards of behaviour as accepted within their respective legal systems regarding 1 the well being of individuals 2 the freedom and autonomy of individuals and 3 the representation of the human interest in government These rights commonly include the right to life the right to an adequate standard of living the prohibition of genocide freedom from torture and other mistreatment freedom of expression freedom of movement the right to self determination the right to education and the right to participation in cultural and political life These norms are based on the legal and political traditions of United Nations member states and are incorporated into international human rights instruments This new book brings together the latest book literature centred on this crucial topic
