Authorization for Incidental Take and Implementation of the Stanford University Habitat Conservation Plan, 2010 Injury Prevention and Public Health Tom Christoffel, Susan Scavo Gallagher, 2006 Health Behavior Education Promotion Preventive Law Reporter, 1999 Fire Prevention Year Book, 1925 Regulating Land and Pollution in China Benjamin van Rooij, 2006 Annotation Many of China's rivers and lakes are strongly polluted the air in cities is amongst the worst in the world while some have warned that if the country is not careful it may soon have insufficient arable land to feed its population This book looks at why the protection of natural resources through stricter legislation and more stringent law enforcement has been so difficult It does so through a combination of a local case with comparative and theoretical insights about lawmaking compliance and enforcement It offers a unique view on how law functions in the world's largest legal system and how such law interacts with the social economic and political circumstances at hand This book offers an incomparable body of empirical and theoretical knowledge for those interested in how law functions in China as well as those interested in the workings of regulatory lawmaking compliance and enforcement in a comparative perspective This title can be previewed in Google Books <http://books.google.com/books/vid/ISBN9789087280130> The Reporter, 1984 The Subversive Activities Prevention Law of Japan Cecil H. Uyehara, 2010 The Subversive Activities Prevention Law (SAPL) was the last major controversial law to be drafted at the end of the Allied Occupation of Japan 1945-1952 which was managed and controlled by General Headquarters (GHQ) under U.S. General MacArthur and was enacted into law after Japan had regained its formal independence in 1952 Soon after the Occupation began prewar Japanese internal security laws were ordered abolished by the Occupation Now that Japan would be regaining its independence in 1952 there was urgency to creating a new integrated national internal security law to fill the vacuum created by the Occupation 1945-1952 The Subversive Activities Prevention Law was to be the centerpiece for maintaining internal security in the new independent Japan It turned out to be an extremely controversial law that was vociferously opposed by the political opposition in and out of the Diet in light of the prewar history surrounding how such internal security laws were implemented by the state security apparatus The demonstrations in 1951-52 against the proposed law organized by the labor unions were the largest loudest and most determined since the end of the war This publication is the first analysis in English on how this law was drafted and debated supported and opposed using the 20 drafts of the law and the subsequent deliberations concerning the proposed law in the Houses of Representatives and Councillors A short epilogue since over 50 years have elapsed since the law was initially enacted in 1952 analyzes the implementation of the law during these years The Subversive Activities Prevention Law of Japan Its Creation 1951-1952 will be of particular interest to those studying the Allied Occupation of Japan the Japanese political and legislative process and its internal security laws Code of Federal Regulations, 2007 Special edition of the Federal register containing a codification of documents of general applicability and future effect as of July with ancillaries The

Bulletin New York (N.Y.). Board of Standards and Appeals, 1928 Prevention of Industrial Disasters, 1991 The Precautionary Principle in Marine Environmental Law Bénédicte Sage-Fuller, 2013-07-18 The book examines whether the jurisdiction of coastal States under international law can be extended to include powers of intervention towards vessels posing a significant risk to their coastal and marine environment but which have not yet been involved in any incident or accident The books sets out how it is that coastal State jurisdiction can indeed be seen as including powers of intervention towards High Risks Vessels before an incident or accident happens on the basis of the precautionary principle The precautionary principle requires taking action when a risk of damage to the environment is suspected but cannot be confirmed scientifically The book thus considers the potential opportunities for the coastal state under international law to regulate international shipping where they consider vessels to an unacceptable risk to the environment in order to prevent or minimise the risk of occurrence of the accident or incident leading to damage The book acknowledges that this puts into question some very old and established principles of the law of the sea most importantly the principle of freedom of navigation But Bénédicte Sage Fuller contends that this change would itself be a consequence of the evolution since the end of WWII of on the one hand international law of the sea itself and of international environmental law on the other hand
