Varga, Erin C. Adams, 2024 Theory holds the capacity to help educators see the world differently challenge problematic assumptions and practices that cultivate harm and illuminate pathways towards access equity justice joy and love While it is easy to underestimate the role of theory in such pursuits throughout social studies education this book shows that theory is always already present in all productions of teaching and learning In this collection well established scholars highlight a broad range of theories that are currently being used to alter the landscape of social studies instruction Important to these efforts is the position that theory does not exist in a vacuum but rather is the reflection of a certain set of concepts and the relationship that one holds to those ideas Taking this further each chapter author employs storytelling as a means to share their personal history and unpack how they came to understand their selected theoretical topic They address a breadth of concepts such as Black feminism psychoanalysis racial capitalism settler colonialism sustainability and technoskepticism Book Features The only resource of its kind that pairs storying with a far reaching range of theories actively being used by scholars in the field of social studies education and research Brief chapters arranged alphabetically by concept provide structure while also staying true to the book's framing of theory as being curious fragmented nomadic and discursive Embedded connections within each chapter meant to help readers understand the relational and entangled nature of theory Contributors include Sohyun An Kristen Duncan Jillian Ford Jim Garrett Wayne Journell Noreen Naseem Rodriguez Muna Saleh Sandra Schmidt Sarah Shear Cathryn van Kessel and Amanda Vickery Instructor, 2002-08 Children's Books in Print R R Bowker

Publishing, Bowker, 1999-12      Representative Americans Norman K. Risjord, 2004-12-10 Populists and Progressives
Norman K. Risjord's next book in the Representative Americans series gives readers a fascinating glimpse into the tumultuous turn of the twentieth century. Risjord brings together brief biographies to explore the political, social, and cultural dimensions of the period from 1890 to 1920. The work begins by personifying the rise of big business and the early struggle between capital and labor with profiles of John D. Rockefeller and Mother Jones. Next, a comparison of William Graham Sumner and Lester Frank Ward illuminates the intellectual debate over social Darwinism. The Great Plains form of Populism comes to life through the story of William Peffer, while Louis Brandeis represents the Wilsonian variety of Progressivism. A portrait of Carrie Chapman Catt provides a window into the women's suffrage movement, and sketches of Alfred Thayer Mahan, Richard Harding Davis, and John Hay explore the shaping of American policies and politics. Finally, John Muir, W. E. B. DuBois, and Margaret Sanger represent individuals ahead of their time and mark the transition from Progressivism to the liberal thought of the latter half of the twentieth century.      Studies in the Medieval Atlantic B. Hudson, 2012-06-04 This collection of essays offers fresh analysis of topics in the exciting area of Atlantic World studies. Challenging standard assumptions, the essays advance the argument that the Atlantic Ocean was a region that encompassed ethnic and political boundaries in which a subcommunity shaped by culture and commerce arose.      Resources in Education, 1997      The Social Studies, 1921

Doing History Linda S. Levstik, Keith C. Barton, 2022-09-06 Now in its sixth edition, Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades. Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds, it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum. The book is grounded in the view that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry: asking questions, collecting and analyzing evidence, examining the varied perspectives and experiences of people in the past, and creating evidence-based historical accounts and interpretations. Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research, the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature, art, writing, and discussion. The authors explain how these classrooms reflect contemporary principles of teaching and learning, and thus the descriptions not only provide specific examples of successful activities but also place them in a context that allows teachers to adapt and apply them in a wide range of settings. Doing History emphasizes diversity in two ways. Readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and see how their diverse experiences can form the foundation for learning, and they also see examples of how teachers can engage students with diverse experiences and perspectives in the past, including those that led to conflict and oppression. The book also discusses principles for working with English learners and newcomers, and it provides guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children's learning. Updates to this edition include updated historical and instructional examples to ensure currency, new suggestions for children's literature to support good teaching expanded attention to teaching about oppressed groups in history and greater attention to when historical perspective taking is and is not appropriate

Roads to Health G. Geltner, 2019-08-02 In Roads to Health G. Geltner demonstrates that urban dwellers in medieval Italy had a keen sense of the dangers to their health posed by conditions of overcrowding shortages of food and clean water air pollution and the improper disposal of human and animal waste He consults scientific narrative and normative sources that detailed and consistently denounced the physical and environmental hazards urban communities faced latrines improperly installed and sewers blocked animals left to roam free and carcasses left rotting on public byways and thoroughfares congested by artisanal and commercial activities that impeded circulation polluted waterways and raised miasmas However as Geltner shows numerous administrative records also offer ample evidence of the concrete measures cities took to ameliorate unhealthy conditions Toiling on the frontlines were public functionaries generally known as viarii or road masters appointed to maintain their community's infrastructures and police pertinent human and animal behavior Operating on a parallel track were the camparii or field masters charged with protecting the city's hinterlands and thereby the quality of what would reach urban markets taverns ovens and mills Roads to Health provides a critical overview of the mandates and activities of the viarii and camparii as enforcers of preventive health and safety policies between roughly 1250 and 1500 and offers three extended case studies for Lucca Bologna and the smaller Piedmont town of Pinerolo In telling their stories Geltner contends that preventive health practices while scientifically informed emerged neither solely from a centralized regime nor as a reaction to the onset of the Black Death Instead they were typically negotiated by diverse stakeholders including neighborhood residents officials artisans and clergymen and fostered throughout the centuries by a steady concern for people's greater health
