Sustainability Jonathan Mark Harris,2009-11-12 Bringing together the thoughts of economists political scientists anthropologists philosophers and agricultural policy professionals this volume focuses on the issues of sustainability in development Examining such topics as international trade political power gender roles legal institutions and agricultural research the contributors focus on the missing links in theory and practice that have been barriers to the achievement of truly sustainable development Any theory of sustainable development must take into account economic social and environmental dimensions Until recently the question What is development was often answered predominantly from the economist s perspective with high priority being assigned to expansion of economic output Social political institutional and ethical aspects have often been neglected But now that sustainable development has become a broadly accepted concept it is impossible to maintain a narrowly economic view of development For this reason the varied perspectives offered by the contributors to this volume are crucial to understanding the process of development as it relates to environmental sustainability and human well being The selection of articles is meant to be stimulating and provocative rather than comprehensive They are roughly divided between those dealing with broad theoretical issues concerning the economic political and social aspects of development Part I and those presenting more applied analysis Part II The common thread is a concern for examining which factors contribute to making development socially just and environmentally sound Rethinking Sustainability will be of interest to economists and social scientists development professionals and instructors seeking to offer their students a broad perspective on development issues Jonathan Harris is Senior Research Associate Global Development and Environment Institute at Tufts University as well as Adjunct Associate Professor of International Economics at Tufts University Fletcher School of Law Searching for Rural Development Merilee S. Grindle,2019-01-24 Throughout the Third World rural people must leave their homes in ever greater numbers to seek temporary work in urban centers in distant rural areas or across international borders This temporary labor migration less an option than a necessity for many is symptomatic of rural stagnation and increasing economic dependence and is most prevalent in regions where the base for agricultural development is poor Searching for Rural Development addresses the critical question of how rural development strategies can help provide more secure livelihoods for the millions who are now unable to sustain themselves and their families in local communities Focusing on Mexico Merilee S Grindle examines how rural families adapt to the paucity of local employment opportunities by pursuing complex strategies of income diversification She assesses various options for creating jobs in rural and semirural areas and considers how recommended rural development policies can be implemented through the political process
