Reflections On A Literary Revolution:

Reflections on a Literary Revolution Graham Hough, 1960-01-01 PIECES DE RESISTANCE Literary Anticipations and Reflections of Revolutionary Changes in France from the Age of Louis XIV to 1871 Julian Scutts, 2020

Revolution and Reflection A. Lees, 2012-12-06 THE PROBLEM AND THE APPROACH The abortive revolutions of 1848 have been widely regarded by historians as a watershed not only in the political but also in the intellectual development of modern Europe Before 1848 according to the traditional view the prevalent climate of opinion was idealistic hopeful humane and progressive Afterwards it was empirical pessimistic cynical and obsessed with power As Hans Kohn put it in his essay Mid century The Turning Point In 1848 the foundations of Western civilizational intellectual belief in the objectivity of truth and justice ethical faith in mercy and tolerance were still unshaken In the spring of 1848 mankind was full of glowing hope but the end of 1848 dashed the hopes and the century which 1848 inaugurated appears to have led slowly but surely to decay and disaster 1 Germany a prime culprit in the debacle which marked the last third of that century has been seen as the country in which the events of 1848 had the most profound impact Although few historians have gone as far as Kohn in linking the failures experienced by mid nineteenth century Germans to the horrors perpetrated by some of their twentieth century descendants it has long been common to think of Germany's response to her defeated revolution as a process of attitudinal preparation for Otto von Bismarck's authoritarian solution to the national question in the period between 1864 and 1871 which in turn was fraught with ominous long range significance

Reflections on Literature and Culture Hannah Arendt, Susannah Young-Ah Gottlieb, 2007 This is the first volume in any language that collects Hannah Arendt's remarkable series of essays and notes on literary figures and cultural questions The New Modernist Novel Elizabeth

Pender, 2024-09-30 Considers relationships between modernist literature and literary criticism and argues that new modernist fiction can bring with it new modes of reading Considers how close reading may change as the study of modernism changes to include recently recovered fiction Asks what reading meant for selected critics of modernist literature around 1930 and around 1960 Offers readings of three new modernist novels Djuna Barnes's Nightwood John Rodker's Adolphe 1920 and Mina Loy's Insel Considers key cultural moments of the novels composition and reception Extends the questions about reading raised by these novels to Samuel Beckett's Comment c'est How It Is and Jean Rhys's short stories Since the late twentieth century new understandings of modernism have come with new attention to a range of writers Yet if the academic study of modernism took shape around an older narrower selection of writers and works how can its modes of reading be relevant to newly recovered modernist writing This book considers how close reading may change as the subjects of literary study change Elizabeth Pender asks what reading meant for critics of modernist literature around 1930 and around 1960 and then what close reading might look like now for three new modernist novels Djuna Barnes's Nightwood John Rodker's Adolphe 1920 and Mina Loy's Insel tend to resist some of the strategies of reading that helped construct a narrowed modernist canon at mid century such as the pursuit of coherence These novels offer new thinking about the temporality of reading style and the ethics of narration Reading these novels now suggests that other new modernist fiction too may require revisions to vocabularies with which modernist literature has sometimes been read Tropes of Revolution C.
