Furniture-Makers and Consumers in England, 1754-1851 Akiko Shimbo,2016-04-15 Covering the period from the publication of Thomas Chippendale s The Gentleman and Cabinet Makers Director 1754 to the Great Exhibition 1851 this book analyses the relationships between producer retailers and consumers of furniture and interior design and explores what effect dialogues surrounding these transactions had on the standardisation of furniture production during this period This was an era before mass production when domestic furniture was made both to order and from standard patterns and negotiations between producers and consumers formed a crucial part of the design and production process This study narrows in on three main areas of this process the role of pattern books and their readers the construction of taste and style through negotiation and daily interactions through showrooms and other services to reveal the complexities of English material culture in a period of industrialisation      The Annotated Pride and Prejudice Jane Austen,David M. A Cultural History of Furniture in the Age of Empire and Industry Catherine L. Futter, Christina M. Anderson, 2022-02-24. The 19th century in Western culture was a time of both confidence and turbulence. Industrial developments resulted in a number of benefits from a growing middle class to efficiency, convenience, and innovation across a range of fields from engineering to architecture. Alongside these improvements, the century began with the extended period of the Napoleonic Wars and was further disrupted by rebellions and revolutions both within Europe and in India, South America, and other parts of the world. Slavery was abolished, and urbanization increased dramatically. These myriad developments were reflected throughout the period in the proliferation of types of furniture along with their categorization as industrial art at the international exhibitions and world fairs, and the increasingly adventurous range of materials that were sometimes used in their construction. Nonetheless, a strong antiquarian historicist strand also prompted interest in the revival of past styles in areas of art and design, including furniture. Drawing upon a wealth of visual and textual sources, this volume presents essays that examine key characteristics of the furniture of the period on the themes of Design and Motifs, Makers, Making, and Materials, Types and Uses, The Domestic Setting, The Public Setting, Exhibition and Display, Furniture and Architecture, Visual Representations, and Verbal Representations.
