Contemporary Trauma Narratives Jean-Michel Ganteau, Susana Onega, 2014-06-27 This book provides a comprehensive compilation of essays on the relationship between formal experimentation and ethics in a number of generically hybrid or liminal narratives dealing with individual and collective traumas running the spectrum from the testimonial novel and the fictional autobiography to the fake memoir written by a variety of famous more neglected contemporary British Irish US Canadian and German writers Building on the psychological insights and theorizing of the fathers of trauma studies Janet Freud Ferenczi and of contemporary trauma critics and theorists the articles examine the narrative strategies structural experimentations and hybridizations of forms paying special attention to the way in which the texts fight the unrepresentability of trauma by performing rather than representing it The ethicality or unethicity involved in this endeavor is assessed from the combined perspectives of the non foundational non cognitive discursive ethics of alterity inspired by Emmanuel Levinas and the ethics of vulnerability This approach makes Contemporary Trauma Narratives an excellent resource for scholars of contemporary literature trauma studies and literary theory

Electromagnetism and the Metonymic Imagination Kieran M. Murphy, 2020-04-02 How does the imagination work How can it lead to both reverie and scientific insight In this book Kieran M Murphy sheds new light on these perennial questions by showing how they have been closely tied to the history of electromagnetism The discovery in 1820 of a mysterious relationship between electricity and magnetism led not only to technological inventions such as the dynamo and telegraph which ushered in the electric age but also to a profound reconceptualization of nature and the role the imagination plays in it From the literary experiments of Edgar Allan Poe Honor de Balzac Villiers de l Isle Adam and Andr Breton to the creative leaps of Michael Faraday and Albert Einstein Murphy illuminates how electromagnetism legitimized imaginative modes of reasoning based on a more acute sense of interconnection and a renewed interest in how metonymic relations could reveal the order of things Murphy organizes his study around real and imagined electromagnetic devices ranging from Faraday s world changing induction experiment to new types of chains and automata in order to demonstrate how they provided a material foundation for rethinking the nature of difference and relation in physical and metaphysical explorations of the world human relationships language and binaries such as life and death This overlooked exchange between science and literature brings a fresh perspective to the critical debates that shaped the nineteenth century Extensively researched and convincingly argued this pathbreaking book addresses a significant lacuna in modern literary criticism and deepens our understanding of both the history of literature and the history of scientific thinking
