Intermediality and Spectatorship in the Theatre Work of Robert Lepage Aristita I. Albacan, 2016-09-23 Robert Lepage has imposed himself in the past three decades as a Wunderkind of contemporary theatre with eagerly awaited and widely acclaimed productions at the most prestigious theatre festivals and venues around the world Soon after his international breakthrough with The Dragon's Trilogy 1984 Lepage's work became an object of particular scrutiny for critics and scholars and continues to be subject to media exposure inspiring cultural critique academic study and the admiration of audiences across the world A recurrent fascination with the formal novelty of his theatrical approach imbues most if not all critical considerations However in spite of the wide interest provoked little space has been devoted to the quintessential impact of his work on spectatorship and most importantly to connecting the dots between his creative practice and its substantial impact on audiences Intermediality and Spectatorship in the Theatre Work of Robert Lepage bridges this gap by exploring the notion that intermediality observed both as a mise en scene strategy and a perceptual effect in performance is situated at the core of the director's approach This approach is situated in direct relation to the evolving expectations and medial competencies of spectators demonstrating an in depth understanding of the ways in which different media can be engaged in the creative process in a holistic way in order to alter the regime of spectatorship to enhance its creative and cognitive potential Lepage's work and theatre making process are analysed here from an interdisciplinary perspective that combines theatre media and cultural studies and which is applied to his solo shows namely Vinci 1986 Needles and Opium 1991 Elsinore 1995 Far Side of the Moon 2000 and Project Andersen 2005 In bringing to the forefront interconnecting notions of intermediality and contemporary spectatorship the book highlights the director's preoccupation with an ongoing dialogue with audiences across the world and their particular involvement in the development of one of the most innovative practices of the Western theatre landscape
